

Why He Did It: Nielsen Defends Transit Vote

THOMAS COLL
(Against the bill)

"I'm not out to kill rapid transit—I just want more service in Contra Costa."

Supervisor Mel F. Nielsen echoed remarks of Assemblyman Jerome Waldie while defending his position on the legislature's "transit bill" this week.

Ever since Nielsen voted to endorse the bill and asked to add other areas to those which Waldie wants exempted from the costs of construction of the system, local observers have been wondering why he took the stand he did.

SOME SHOOK their heads and muttered, "political suicide."

Others were up in arms.

And yet others made the man from District II their hero of the day.

Why had Nielsen endorsed the proposal when his constituents, especially those near the proposed transit lines, had overwhelmingly supported the bond issue in November?

Was this stand simply an extension of Nielsen's pre-election opposition to the system?

To find answers to these questions and others, The Sun called upon Nielsen this week in his Lafayette office.

THIS IS what we learned: "Although I am elected by voters in District II, I represent the county as a whole in my actions," Nielsen said.

"Before the election, I tried to get as many concessions in our area as I could, but the board ended up approving a $4.5 million brochure."

The voters, impatient with construction-clogged highways, were "sold a package" in the "biggest sales campaign in the history of bond issues," Nielsen claimed.

A referendum today would result in defeat for the system, he said.

BUT, THE supervisor insisted,

"since the election I have had no part in efforts to stop the district." He acknowledged his post-election statement: "I'm not going to fight rapid transit anymore; the people have had their say."

Now that Assemblyman Waldie has proposed his bill, Nielsen said, "I will support this 'club' which will bring more service into the county."

"If they will give us more service, I want it in my district," he added.

Nielsen said the tax burden might increase for those who remain in the district unless service is extended to the areas Waldie wants to exempt from taxation.

"TAXES WILL go up if the district is stubborn; if they extend service, there will be no increase," he said.

Will the Waldie bill kill the district, Nielsen was asked.

"The bill cannot kill the district," he replied, "District representatives admitted to me in public meeting that there was $200 million in 'padding' in the bond issue."

The district says this "padding" was to take care of inflation. This, Nielsen charged, was "ridiculous."

THE ALLEGED padding would conceivably pay for extension of service without changing the district elsewhere, Nielsen indicated.

The supervisor conceded that there was a possibility of a taxpayer's suit arising out of changes in the district.

"I cannot say how that suit would fare in the courts, however," he said.

Was it true, as one account had it, that the supervisor had said, "Nobody in my district has expressed opposition to the bill?"

Nielsen said it was.

"At no time," he said, "did anyone either telephone or write me that he opposed the legislation."

ON THE OTHER hand, the supervisor maintained, many had asked him to endorse the bill and add certain areas to it. "There were only two persons at the hearings, both representatives from industries in the county," he added.

He had requested the addition of San Ramon, Martinez, Crockett, Alamo, Danville and Diablo to the exempted area because "a significant amount" of persons from the areas urged him to do so.

The supervisor explained that that, while he did not represent incorporated Martinez, the Alhambra Valley area was in District II.

"WALDIE HAS good support in the Assembly; if the bill passes that house it will have no trouble in the Senate," Nielsen predicted.

While Nielsen stressed he was not trying to kill rapid transit, he did offer alternatives which might be effected if the district died:

The AC Transit District could extend service to the county, Nielsen said.

Whether or not the Waldie bill passes, plans might have to be changed in any event if the federal government offers an "economic boost" to this or other transit proposals.

Were transit to die, the recent proposals by Aerojet and others to construct a monorail from San Francisco south would bear looking into. "Construction of this system will probably lure San Mateo County away from BARTD in any event," Nielsen said.

Nielsen Ignores The Voter: Coll

"Supervisor Nielsen is substituting his own personal feelings for the expressed wishes of the voters who approved the Rapid Transit bonds," Supervisor Thomas Coll charged this week.

Coll was defending his own position on the "transit bill" proposed by Assemblyman Jerome Waldie.

Last week, the board voted 3-2 (Nielsen, Linscheid, Silva vs. Coll and Kenny) to endorse the bill which would exempt eastern Contra Costa from paying for construction of the system until direct service is extended to the area.

This week the supervisors discussed additional exempted areas proposed by District II Supervisor Mel F. Nielsen.

"VOTERS chose rapid transit by a healthy majority," Coll insisted.

"The legislation proposed is a breach of faith with those voters, as is any action supporting it."

If the bill passes, Coll maintained, the worst result will not be that the district will be killed.

"Worse yet, you'll never pass another bond issue of any size for any purpose in this area," the supervisor predicted.

Coll said he felt the Waldie bill would have a hard time passing in the assembly.

"The board's endorsement will have little effect on the assembly. The legislators know that it comes from three men who represent only a third of the county population," he said.

COLL STRESSED his admiration for Assemblyman Waldie, but contended that "he is way off-base on this one."

The supervisor dismissed suggested alternatives to the rapid transit system.

"It would cost about three times the amount of the transit bond to construct a sufficient number of freeways," he pointed out.

And, he said, proposals to extend the AC Transit District service to Contra Costa had been fully covered earlier.

"The fact is, AC is not rapid transit; it's a bus line and it won't solve the problems."

RECENT PROPOSALS for a monorail system from San Francisco south were tentative and, if completed, "only a complement to the BARTD," Coll said.

"I have no doubt that the district, as proposed and approved, will benefit the entire county," he said.

"Even though people in the outlying areas will not get direct service now, they will be served indirectly now and directly in the future."

"In addition, the system will have a tremendous effect on residential development which will be felt throughout the county," he said.

Sheriff Captures Three Men in One: Drug Fraud

Charged with securing narcotics by means of a fictitious prescription, Eugene Raymond Derby, 27, of San Pablo, was arrested Tuesday morning in Orinda.

Sheriff's Deputy Sam Ginsberg reconstructed Derby's attempt and short-lived success in obtaining six ounces of hycodan, a synthetic opium derivative.

Derby telephoned a pharmacy in Orinda at around 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, identifying himself as one Dr. Arnold of Concord, the deputy's report said.

He then ordered six ounces of hycodan for a "patient" named "Eugene Silver."

SHORTLY thereafter, the report goes on, Derby-Silver-Arnold entered the pharmacy to pick up his prescription.

The pharmacist said he had received no order for the prescription, but that he would call Dr. Arnold.

"Eugene Silver" left the shop hurriedly, the report indicates, whereupon the pharmacist immediately contacted the sheriff's department, describing the customer and an orange truck he was driving.

As Deputy Ginsberg rushed to the scene, Dr. Arnold and his patient were having better luck down the street at another pharmacy.

GINSBERG spotted the truck and a man answering Derby's description leaving the second drug store with a package in his hand.

Questioned by Ginsberg in the presence of the second pharmacist (who was searching for the telephone number of "Dr. Arnold") Derby revealed enough about his three selves to warrant the arrest, the report indicated.

Bail was set at $1575 in Walnut Creek Municipal Court after Derby was committed to county jail.

In another area theft, tires, batteries, tools and cash totaling $510 were stolen from a service station at 55 Orinda Way.

Supervisors Approve $21,000 Salary Pay Hike

A change in pay for county employees, costing the county about $21,000 for the rest of the fiscal year, was approved Tuesday by the county board of supervisors.

The change will be a hike of one salary step for 94 employees whose jobs were lagging behind the market, according to a study made by the county civil service department.

Included for the increases were jobs in the district attorney's office, the planning department, pharmacists, administrative jobs and engineers.

THE COUNTY'S 12 mayors have been given another six weeks to find an answer to a suggestion that city police departments pay for extraditing fugitives.

Supervisors, agreeing to a request of the Contra Costa Mayors' Conference, postponed a hearing scheduled for Tuesday until April 2.

The county approved a 50-year lease with Pacific States Aviation, Incorporated, for a site on Buchanan Field. The company will construct a $150,000 hangar, aircraft dealer offices and lounge on the site.

The firm, owned by Warren and Betty Boggess, has operated at Buchanan Field since 1946 when the county took over the field from the Federal Government.

WORK WILL start next month and finish in mid-August.

County Librarian Bertha Helum clashed with Supervisor Tom Coll on her request for an endorsement of a proposed state law for state grants to local libraries.

Coll, who expressed satisfaction with this county's library system, said he was opposed to spending money to help other counties.

'West' Approves Unification Plan 'F': No Changes

Its half of Unification Plan "F" has been accepted without change by the County Committee on School District Reorganization augmented by Aclanes, Moraga, Canyon and Orinda Districts.

As a result, the plan will be forwarded to the State Board of Education—but not before September 1.

Dr. Frank Bradford, assistant county superintendent of schools, announced yesterday that the "western" augmented committee wants to wait and see what Walnut Creek and Lafayette do.

The committee augmented by those districts and Aclanes will meet Tuesday at Stanley School in Lafayette, 8 p.m., to decide on their half of the plan.

Actually, a county spokesman told The Sun yesterday, two separate plans, one for each proposed unified district, will be sent to the state.

Other school officials expect the meeting Tuesday to be as routine as that held in Orinda this Tuesday.

Following approval of the plan by the state, County Superintendent Floyd Marchus would be instructed to call an election on the measures within two years of the state okay.

State Will Light Caldecott

Plans are afoot to light up two dim holes known as Caldecott Tunnel.

The State Division of Highways revealed last week that engineers are preparing the project for public bid.

"Initial plans call for refurbishing the two existing Caldecott bores when Caldecott No. 3 goes into operation next year," the division's Jack Grasberger said in San Francisco.

In addition to extension of the luminaires which were installed under the existing Caldecott No. 3 contract, the state plans to re-line pavement and correct other deficiencies in the tunnel.

Grasberger indicated that the project would await completion of Caldecott No. 3 in order to send traffic through the new bore as work progressed.

He said complete details of the work were being studied by state engineers.

Weekday Traffic Snarl at Miramonte Looks Hopeless

County: 'Take the Bus --Leave Driving to Us!'

There appears to be no relief in sight for Miramonte High School's traffic jam each week-day when school lets out at 3:05 p.m.

The intersection at Ivy Drive and Moraga Road for 15-20 minutes is bedlam. The same situation, to a somewhat lesser degree, exists when school convenes at 8:05 a.m.

Ivy Drive is a sub-standard county road. It is less than 32 feet wide.

WHEN DUFFEL-SMOOT'S 303 unit condominium is built adjacent to the highway, an undetermined additional number of cars will use the right-of-way. As part of the condominium development, the County Public Works Department has ordered that Ivy Drive must be widened.

There will be one main road into the condominium from Moraga Way and one or two other openings, according to Joe Smoot.

The main access road will be about 500 feet east of Ivy Drive. These roads will probably be private for awhile; however they will be built according to county specifications, said Smoot.

The developers are not as yet certain whether to open these private roads to the high school students.

Captain Ed Jelich of the California Highway Patrol states that the simplest way to alleviate the traffic jam would be for students "to utilize the school bus. It is being paid for whether it is used or not. It would be cheaper for parents and a lot safer."

THE MAJORITY of students turn thumbs down on this simple solution.

A signal at the intersection is not justified for 15 minutes of congestion, stated Mark Kermit, county traffic engineer.

Kermit says that the accident rates at the intersection put it low on the county's priority list. There were no accidents in 1960; one in 1961; and four in 1962.

Of the latter, only one accident occurred at an hour when students could have been using the road.

June 3, 1959, Hugh Oliphant was killed at the intersection after he had driven his granddaughter to high school.

Kermit stated that in 1961 he met with Principal James Lewis and Ross Reagan, business manager for the Aclanes Union High School District.

Kermit sent two recommendations to the school. One was a recommendation that the one-way street which goes by the office be routed the opposite way, changing the direction of parking cars, and easing the flow of traffic.

THE TRAFFIC division's other suggestion was to utilize a back exit. This back private road goes behind the football field and out La Venita.

Lewis explained that this was not practical at the present time. The road is inadequate and will not take buses. It is treacherous because cars using it intersect the highway at a point where cars which exited from Ivy Drive are just picking up speed.

Hitchhikers along the highway are also a problem.

The CHP has been giving the boys citations for not keeping within the limits; but they still add to the general confusion.

Drivers stopping to pick up the hitchhikers also slow the flow of traffic on the highway, according to Kermit.

"The best thing to do when the students are piling out in that 15 or 20 minutes would be for them to stop at the stop sign; but keep the traffic flowing," said Kermit. He added that this would require an officer to direct traffic.

Capt. Jelich stated that he could not supply a highway patrolman for the job, nor could he deputize anyone else to do this.

CHP couldn't afford to assign a man. It will not give permission to the sheriff's office to deputize a man since this isn't a function of its department, Jelich explained.

BECAUSE OF the liability, neither a student nor a volunteer citizen can perform the job of directing traffic, he said.

"Until such time as we are able to get more efficient traffic control, young people who want the car to go to San Francisco, skiing, the beach, should first show their parents that they can handle a congested traffic situation in their own area," said Mrs. Winnie Gilmore, president of the Miramonte Parents Club.

"I DID IT WITH my little hatchet." Wearing his George Washington hat, Wade Hutchins, 6, enacts the famed cherry tree cutting legend, at Glorietta School, Orinda. Bobby Kincheloe, 5, plays Washington's father. Kindergarten classmates Jill Haring, 5, and Jane Gustafson, 5, fail to be impressed by the solemnity of the occasion.

Orinda Analyzed

"The number of police officers in Orinda is lower than municipal level; and is likely to continue so until incorporation," Joseph Connery, administrative analyst for the county, said Monday night.

He addressed a public meeting of the civic affairs committee of the Orinda Association. Connery covered the topic of the county's administration of planning, zoning, police protection and road maintenance for the Orinda area.

ORINDA HAS a relatively low level of crime, Connery said.

Law enforcement services over the past four or five years has improved, he said.

As a result of incorporation of Pleasant Hill, beats are smaller, Connery said. Beat four, which includes Orinda, Moraga and Canyon, now has one man a day patrolling in a car. In an emergency, other men are on call.

From 4 p.m. till 8 a.m., there are two men in one car. Weekends, there are two to three cars day and night.

The greater night patrol is due to volunteers. Connery explained that patrolmen were assigned on a ratio per crime wave and not per person. On this basis, North Richmond gets greatest protection. He said that the amount of crime is determined by the amount of calls to the sheriff's department.

THIS DOESN'T include California Highway Patrol calls.

Increasing the number of policemen doesn't necessarily reduce crime, according to Connery. An unincorporated area gets a low level of protection, not a poor level, he said. The crime level reaches "a plateau."

Connery gave these figures: County cost for one policeman per year, including all backing (not a car), is $12,070. One police vehicle, including equipment, is $4890.

Total tax yield for all services from Orinda is $4,100,000. Total yield from the county is 22 million.

THE SHERIFF'S department gets four per cent, including courts and jails. Total costs of protection in Orinda range from $40,000 to $50,000. County costs are $1,600,000.

"There is no such thing as sheer tax equity," Connery said. He pointed out that Orinda has 45 boundaries, depending on which district you were referring to.

Orinda has about 50 miles of county roads, according to Connery. The county figures $3000 per mile per year for road maintenance during an ordinary year, he stated.

HE POINTED out that thinsyry.

Glorietta's Citizens of the Month

Proudly wearing their beanies are Glorietta School's first "Citizens of the Month."

The program, to teach the rudiments of good citizenship at the child's level, was inaugurated this month by principal Jack Clark.

FROM EACH of Glorietta's 19 classrooms (including two kindergartens) a "citizen of the month" is chosen. He is awarded a cap, certificate and given special duties.

"The obligation of citizenship is not just obeying laws; but willingness to accept responsibilities for themselves and classmates at school and home," said Clark.

"We want to put citizenship on a more mature level than merely being a good girl or boy," he said. "In making decisions, we're trying to help the child to act in these terms: courtesy, consideration, cooperation."

Method of selecting the honored citizen in each classroom is left up to the teacher—by vote or appointment.

AN ESSAY written by four students of Miss Joan Blesi's sixth grade, Peggy Dexter, Janet Price, Doug Mushied and Marjorie Steele, explains the award this way:

"This program was started to help produce good citizens for our community. This person is picked because of his outstanding quality in school and after.

"He has many duties such as dismissing his lunch table. He sees that everyone leaves the table clean. A shield made of colored paper is hung above the teacher's name over each table.

"THE GOOD citizen turns the shield over so that the teacher on duty may know the table was left clean.

"A large bulletin board has been hung in the cafeteria. On it are the good citizens. This program has encouraged the children of Glorietta School to become good citizens."

And ultimately, Clark became good Americans.

Edith Scatena for her Giant of a brain child

AUTOGRAPH a baseball by the Giant of her choice, please for Edith (Mrs. William) Scatena who brainstormed an idea into a lot of fun and general excitement and the realization of a green turf field for Pine Grove Intermediate School.

As ways and means chairman of the Parents' Club School Board, the Sleepy Hollow lady by-passed the usual bridge games and turned to America's favorite sport, fund-raising for a field of green where future generations of Pine Grovers will enjoy a myriad of activities.

As a devotee of sports since childhood (she was always fielding baseballs for her brothers) she is most enthusiastic about the new turf which will be started early in March and ultimately bring to both boys and girls increased activities, sports-wise, as well as: "The list of things is endless, when you start thinking of outdoor dance groups, concerts, perhaps even graduation ceremonies some day..."

THE FREE SHOWING of the Giants' World Series movies in Orinda helped swell the coffers and the efforts to raise more monies by donations of one dollar will continue through March. On April 6, someone will be the lucky one to see 51 Giants' games from a box seat for two when Man of the Year Clarence Betz pulls the enviable ticket from a tub full of stubs.

Canadian-born, the gracious, dignified Edith schooled in Pasadena, attended Occidental, remains active in the fashion field as an associate member of the New York Fashion Group...not to mention that husband Bill is West Coast representative for Kimberly Knits, Inc. The couple live in a handsome contemporary home in Sleepy Hollow and this June will graduate so Rex from the Panther ranks at Pine Grove. (You can bet he'll come back to test that turf field that got its start in his mother's pretty head.)

EDITH, WHO attributes much of the success of the project to Shirley Crawshaw who handled the actual plans for turfing, emphasizes she's "proud to have been part of a parent group that gave us the Go Signal to undertake the turfing project..."

Crossroads Is Becoming Hub of Highway System

Orinda is fast finding itself as the hub of the state highway system, Albert E. Simmons, supervising highway engineer for the State Highway Division IV of office in San Francisco, told the Orinda Chamber of Commerce last Thursday. The chamber met at noon at the Casa Orinda.

Traffic at the crossroads has doubled in the past 10 years, Simmons stated. The highway division's traffic count is for one day: 1947, 17,000 cars; 1955, 53,000 cars; and 1962, 53,000.

SIMMONS, WHO was introduced by program chairman Elmer Anderson, has a master's degree in transportation.

State and interstate group freeways will intersect at Orinda, he stated. The traffic congestion at the tunnel will soon be alleviated, he said.

The new eight-lane freeway project under construction from Orinda interchange to the Caldecott tunnel will have its 22-foot divider strip landscaped, according to Simmons.

The state's priority system on new roads is based on three factors, he explained. These are: money available; traffic; and whether it is part of the interstate system.

DESIGNATION of two routes through the county as part of the federal interstate system is helping Contra Costa get far more than its "formula" share of new freeway construction, stated Simmons.

The federal program provides 90 per cent of the money for state links in its system. The $30 billion interstate system will be completed in approximately 1972, Simmons explained.

PAST BIG SIR, Robert R. Ralston, 29 Las Vegas, Orinda, passes the gavel to his successor, Homer Bemis of Oakland, 1963 Big Sir, Sons in Retirement, East Bay Branch. Ralston was awarded a certificate of recognition by SIR for his distinguished leadership for the past year.

Poet Witt Draws Large Crowd at Library

By MARIE MONAHAN

Poetry can pull a good crowd! Particularly when the lyrical lines are paired with a provocative title like "All Roses Aren't Red" which is what poet Harold Witt did the day before Valentine's for a Friends of the Orinda Library meeting.

The prize-winning author attracted a full house of members, guests and several rows of students to the handsome interior of the Orinda Library where he discussed poetry and read some of his most mellifluous verse.

WITT, WHO bears a marked resemblance to Mark Twain, held his audience for a good hour with lines or articulate prose that have appeared in many topnotch publications. He is also the author of two books of verse—"Beasts in Clothes," published by Macmillan in 1961, and "The Death of Venus" brought out by Golden Quill Press in 1958.

The quietly sensitive and blond moustachioed man (he shaved off a full beard not too long ago) appeared right at home against

Library Board Studies Addition

W. M. Fleeger, president of the Orinda Library Board, reported this week that the present Orinda Library is approaching capacity.

Both shelf and seating space is fully used and a definite need for a children's room and larger work room is imminent, said Fleeger.

The Friends of the Orinda Library were told by their chairman, Mrs. Roger Stark, at their meeting Wednesday that the library board is studying the possible formation of either a Community Service District or a County Service Area.

Either plan would require active participation by Orinda residents during 1963 in order to have funds available for 1965 construction.

Joan Kasten, Orinda librarian, is taking weekly records on both circulation and traffic flow to aid in the study.

At the board meeting of the Orinda Association Monday at 8 p.m., members of the library board will discuss the need of library growth.

the backdrop of book-lined shelves.

HIS BACKGROUND includes a three year term as librarian at San Jose State College from 1956 to 1959. An English major, he graduated from the University of California in 1943 and won his master's there in 1947. He returned to the same campus later for a Bachelor of Library Science degree in 1953.

Medium in stature, precise and poetic in manner, Witt read his writings very slowly, thoughtfully, quite like the way the late Robert Frost did before an audience.

SOME OF HIS stanzas sum themselves up with special punch and patois as in the final of three retrospective sonnets that appeared in a recent New Yorker under the title "Aunts and Uncles:"

"I view them not as children but as some funny show of quick and charming freaks, knowing my own enlargement looks to them one of those natural, disturbing quirks—humorous animal or man from space—and neither dreams the other in his place."

The attentive throng at the mid-morning gathering enjoyed another New Yorker poem, "Dreamscape In Kummel," which Witt prefaced with a few observations on poets and drink and the likes of Dylan Thomas.

This delightful sip of perspective came upon the writer when he imagined himself down inside a long-stemmed glass of fine liqueur—and the poem proved heady as wine.

FROM HIS book "Beasts in Clothes" (which contains in its four sections some lyrical observations and satires on society) he plucked a poem called "Here," an imagery depicting the ruthlessness and beauty of the sea. For a few choice lines—

"through bone and claw we stroll where horror crawls in pearl and flaming rainbows beautify a cold and wordless world."

His voluminous verse has appeared in the Saturday Review, the Hudson Review, the Kenyon Post, the Ladies' Home Journal, Contact and most of the major magazines.

Witt's own poetic versions of the Greek myths won for him the James Phelan Award in 1960 and he is currently working on a third book of collected poems and he is humorously captioned "Thanks to the Octopus."

AND WHO DOES Witt admire and revere in his own field? The works of Emily Dickinson are among his favorites.

"In fact, we named our 13-year-old Emily for her, sort of."

There being a brand new baby daughter in the Witt household by name of Jessamyn, we wondered if that, too, was derived from author West. "Sort of," answered the poet dreamily, "She made us aware of the name."

Witt and his pretty wife Beth are also parents of an eight-year-old son Eric who "just somehow" suited that name at birth.

The full-time poet works from his Claremont Avenue home in Orinda where he daily disciplines himself to the details required of a man of verse making a name for himself in the poetry world.

BETH SERVES as a "good critic" and sometimes his own family serve as his subject matter. "Ten," recently printed in the Ladies' Home Journal, was written for daughter Emily when she was that particular age.

High School Girls' Clubs: Service or Snobbery?

"I'm getting sick to my stomach about the whole thing."

This is the way a sophomore girl in one of the county's high schools described her feelings about girls' service clubs in her school.

"The girls get all worried about whether they're going to be asked to join or not, and you feel all left out if you're not asked. And even if you don't really want to join, you're almost forced to if you're asked, just to show you have been asked."

"IT WOULDN'T be quite so bad if they really were what they were supposed to be, but they're not. Well—I guess there are a few kids who really want to serve."

In recent months, a committee appointed by the Acalanes Parents' Club Executive Board has been investigating girls' service clubs.

There are 10 clubs which now operate in the Acalanes Union High School District. Four are at Acalanes, five at Miramonte, and one at Las Lomas. There are none at Del Valle and Campolindo.

At their November meeting, the club board adopted a statement of position which recommended that membership in these clubs and in any similar future clubs: "Be open to all juniors and seniors who wish to join, and who express a willingness to aid in the service activities."

At most county high schools, boys' clubs are almost non-existent. The boys' clubs have either lost their sponsor or they have been disbanded by the school.

MEMBERS OF the parents committee have been besieged with complaints by parents and students of the adverse effect of the service clubs on girls in the district.

"My daughter's sense of values was challenged. She wants to join; but it is against her principles." . . . "Only the popular, sought-after are asked to join. The clubs are for social significance, prestige." . . . "Social snobbery is fostered."

"There is stigma by not being invited."

February 13, Acalanes High School District Board members heard the delegation of parents request a board policy on off-campus service clubs involving high school girls.

The clubs are sponsored by the Mt. Diablo Therapy Center, Children's Hospital of the East Bay, and the Children's Home Society as service units for the sponsoring organization.

Parents requested that the board consider a policy to open membership to all eligible high school girls. The parents alleged that membership for such units is now selective.

Mr. and Mrs. William McKee headed the group which presented the parent petition.

MRS. ALICE BOARD of the Children's Hospital junior service clubs, Mrs. John Hall of Children's Home Society junior chapters, and Mrs. Calvin Seilacci of the Mt. Diablo Therapy junior chapter organizations described the service nature of the organizations.

They lauded "the value to girls who participate in the service aspects of these chapters."

Chairman of the board Glen Allen, 61 Crest Drive, Walnut Creek, stated that the discussion and parent recommendation would be taken under study.

"Our thinking has not crystallized at this time," said superintendent Neil M. Parsons. "Matters of interpretation must be cleared up before the board will take any action."

He stated that the state education code reads: "It is unlawful for any pupil enrolled in any elementary or secondary school to join or become a member of any secret fraternity, sorority or club."

Parsons said that the district would not condone any "secret" clubs. Any that would fall into the "above category" would be barred, he said.

"EACH COUNTY makes its own interpretation of the legal meaning of the code," said Parsons. He is conferring with the district attorney's office on this.

In the past, the DA's office pointed out: These service clubs are not secret. They are sponsored by the school. Members wear no insignia. They take no oath of allegiance.

parents' committee, the four clubs at Acalanes (for instance) are commonly known as the "Acalanes girls' clubs" and are believed to be school clubs.

At the February 13 board meeting, William McKee, an attorney who resides in Lafayette, read the policy adopted by the San Francisco school board in 1948.

THE SF BOARD'S legal counsel, Irving Breyer, stated that the school board could adopt a policy if "it became apparent that existence of clubs in their present form adversely affected the morale of the students."

"The sponsoring organizations of these clubs will be able to work out membership rules which will qualify under the new rule, and which will permit the organizations to continue to carry on their community activities without the problems which presently exist," the parents' petition stated.

THE GROUP appeared before a meeting of the Miramonte Parents' Club at the high school Monday night.

Miramonte Principal James Lewis stated: "We have seen no indications from parents or students that the Miramonte clubs adversely affect the girls. We're quite satisfied with the way these clubs are run; and the service they do."

The Acalanes Parents' Club said that the solution to "this problem should not lie within the individual family to solve. Parents who dislike the undemocratic nature of the existing clubs, could forbid their daughters to join."

"This would make martyrs out of a few students, and would solve nothing. There would still remain all of the girls who would like to have been asked to join, but weren't."

A MOTHER who has had two girls belonging to clubs reported this remark by a daughter now in college:

"Lots of kids' whole future in Acalanes depended on getting into a club."

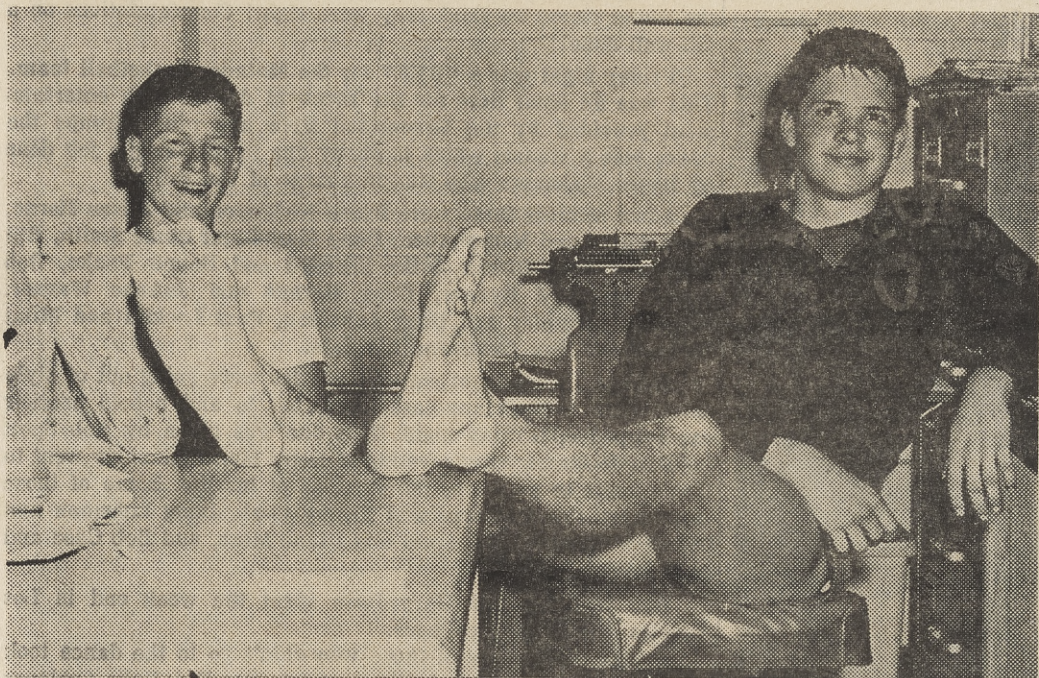

While the mother believes this to be "an overstatement" she says that "the importance of 'getting in' is overemphasized."

"This is evidenced in the anxiety that goes into waiting for the final day of selection and by the energy that is spent by some in being over-solicitous to members," she said.

"Kissing up, I've heard it called. The emotional energy drained in this way detracts from school work and school activities."

"MY OBSERVATION has been that the members enjoy their clubs. However, over the years, I have been very distressed by the undemocratic way in which members are selected," stated the mother.

50 - Mile Club

RELAXING in The Sun's Lafayette office after completing the 50-mile hike Saturday are Stephen Chase (right) and Charles DeFerrari. They finished in 12 hours, 44 minutes, more than three hours ahead of the field.

ALTHOUGH MIGHTY WEARY these 10 youngsters who finished less than an hour apart on the 50-mile hike managed to raise their refreshments in a salute to one another at The Sun's Lafayette office Saturday night. Included are: Gregg Bentley, Stephen Armstrong, Mickey Shine, Craig Peters, Darryl McLeod, Ken Terry, Ron Ball, John Griffith and Pat McCluskey. All are M.H. Stanley students except McCluskey who attends Springhill School.

14 - Mile Club

CALLING IT QUILTS after covering 14 miles of the 50-mile hike are these three out-of-shape members of The Sun's editorial staff. News Editors Terry Hansen (left to right) and Walt Wright along with Associate Editor George Colburn made it to the Orinda crossroads in 5½ hours.

Sun Trio Lasts Only 14 Miles

The Sun's 50-mile hike for three male members of its staff lasted about 5½ hours Saturday morning.

Associate Editor George Colburn, news editors Terry Hansen and Walt Wright lasted just 14 miles. They called it quits in a haven at the Orinda crossroads at 11:30 a.m.

However, they held their heads high as they scoffed at Pierre Salinger's decision not to even give it a try. The trio had set up the trek for Saturday with the idea of beating Pierre's walk on Friday.

HOWEVER, the President's press secretary quit before starting and the threesome was forced to give it a try.

And try they did—according to their own first-hand reports. And, Pierre could never have made it over the first of the never-ending string of hills on Charles Hill Road, Orinda, they said.

Mrs. Jane Putnam, another staff member, also started the hike along with Mrs. Colburn, Mrs. Barcelona and her two youngsters, 10 and seven.

It was strictly "no contest" for the adults from the start.

After passing out copies of the route to many youngsters assembled at the Lafayette Sun office, the Sun staffers walked in their dust until calling it a day.

After Mrs. Colburn decided to quit, Mrs. Putnam got lonely and went back to work.

HOWEVER, Mrs. Barcelona and children kept right up with the male trio from The Sun.

It was by unanimous consent that the three called off the hike at the Orinda crossroads. Eyewitness reports claim the three were completely demoralized by Ted Barcelona Jr. who "just kept walking."

The route started out Moraga Road to Ramee Center, then back to Acalanes Road and the freeway. The threesome managed the seven miles without too much difficulty. However, the Charles Hill Road test was too much.

The youngsters who decided to try their stamina were divided into four groups for the most part. The first group of five had two finishers.

THE SECOND and third groups combined for the stretch drive in the darkness.

The fourth group made it back to Lafayette following Moraga Way from Orinda to St. Mary's Road.

The finalists crossed over through Burton Valley to Walnut Creek.

They then traveled through Walnut Creek and Pleasant Hill to Diablo Valley College and then returned to the Lafayette Sun office via Reliez Valley Road.

WALNUT CREEK MAYOR ROBERT A. NELSON (insert) WILL COMMUTE IN A HELICOPTER LIKE THIS MARCH 4

Walnut Creek's Mayor Will Try New Commute

Bus rider Robert A. Nelson will find commuting a little easier on Monday, March 4.

In addition to being a daily commuter to San Francisco, Nelson is also mayor of Walnut Creek, but there is some question as to which task, commuting or "mayoring," is the more difficult.

In any event, Nelson is The Sun's first choice as the perfect commuter: a man with important things to do in two cities and no time to waste enroute.

SO WE PLAN to introduce him to the latest in commuter conveniences: the private helicopter.

Hughes Tool Company is actually manufacturing a two-seater commuter helicopter with a man like Mayor Nelson in mind.

As The Sun reported a few weeks ago, you can pick one up for about $2,500.

Which may seem like a lot, but some frustrated bus riders or car poolers might give a lot to make it between Walnut Creek and San Francisco in only 30 minutes.

AND THINK of the view on the way!

If you're really interested, the vehicle is sold locally by the Waters Helicopter Corporation in San Francisco.

Neither The Sun nor Mayor Nelson, however, is selling helicopters.

We just think the idea of helicopter commuting is an exciting part of the future of this area.

Workers Man Polio 'Phones

Information about Type Three Polio Vaccine, to be given on March 9, is available to central county residents at 228-5010 in Martinez.

Dr. Harold Kay, president of the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association announced this week that volunteers would man the phones to answer queries about the vaccine.

He urged all children, persons living in families with children, pregnant women and those planning overseas travel especially to take the vaccine.

Weekend Weather Forecast

Skies in central county will be partly cloudy today and tomorrow, according to the U.S. Weather Bureau.

There is a good chance that the three-day holiday will be marred by rain.

Temperatures will remain about normal for this time of the year. Highs will be in the low 60s. Minimum mercury readings are expected to be in the low 40s.

San Ramon to Rodeo: Nielsen Pulls Them Out

Supervisor Mel F. Nielsen sent a two-pronged attack deep into rapid transit territory Tuesday as the war of BART taxes and the Waldie bill continued among county supervisors.

Nielsen asked for and won recommendation to exempt the following areas from taxation to pay for construction of the $792 million project.

San Ramon, Danville, Tassajara, Alamo, Rodeo, Alhambra Valley, Crockett, Port Costa, Martinez and the area between Martinez and Port Chicago.

VIGOROUSLY OPPOSED by Supervisors Thomas Coll and James Kenny, Nielsen was supported by those supervisors whose districts are already recommended for exclusion, Joe Silva and Edmund Linscheid.

The three-two split vote was identical to that endorsing Waldie's bill last week.

Translated into geographical terms, Nielsen's motion resembles an encircling pincer movement on the map.

On the north, the area recommended for exemption comes within four miles of a transit station proposed for Lafayette, and includes the industry-rich Carquinez Strait shoreline as far west as San Pablo Bay.

TO THE SOUTH, Nielsen's motion brings the exempted area to within only three miles of Walnut Creek, where a station would be constructed under present district plans.

Nielsen claimed Tuesday that the so-called "legislative club" to be wielded against the district would not result in higher taxes.

Some $200 million worth of what he termed "padding" in the bond issue would finance added construction or make up the tax loss, he indicated.

Board Chairman Kenny countered that "over five years of study had shown" that extension of lines would cost more in bond monies, and that the tax burden was bound to increase if other tax support were withdrawn.

THOSE WHO would pay taxes under the combined recommendations of Nielsen and Waldie are property owners in the west county area and in the central county "T" made up of Orinda, Lafayette, Walnut Creek, Pleasant Hill and Concord.

All property owners directly south of Highway 24 to the county line would also be taxed for transit construction.

Both Kenny and Coll said that the Waldie bill was unconstitutional and that support of it was contrary to the wishes of the voters.

Suburbia Scribblings

By MARIE MONAHAN

I Cannot Tell a Lie . . .

WE'RE going to the dogs! It's bad enough when the big prestige stores say stay open for the first time this Washington's B'day, but when Romance has gone out of Valentine's Day with the 7th & 8th graders, then Cupid IS Stupid, as they say in that song. Even SIXTH graders have outgrown Valentine's. (NOT ME, et vous?)

ALL is not lost, however, dear heart, in the Hearts & Flowers Dept. . . . As long as there still are lovey-doves like the Norman Parkers who celeb their anniversary on Valentine's Day, this year, their 30th, w/Eva in her wedding gown, Norm in his dinner jacket & dinner a deux afront the fire in their charming Rose Lane nest.

Our local King & Queen of Hearts open presents, just like Christmas, & cards & calls pour in from all over. Eva has this advice for young ladies planning their wedding date. Pick St. Valentine's Day! Nobody forgets it!

LOTS OF ORINDANS tunneled to Oakland in the rain Sat. for a Big Surprise Annvy. for the Parkers—Sylvia & Bob Cox drove in very carefully, Sylvia precariously balancing on her lap, a 3-tiered confection of a wedding cake she'd put the pink frosting & rosebud touches to at 3 the morning before.

The Ernest Rahmeyers, Tom Gunns, Bill Langs, Spike Spittlers, Bill Koches, Jim Chapples, Carl Wellington Smith were among the well-wishers for "Thirty More!"

The Parkers, who look like the couple atop the wedding cake, (Eva was pink from head to toe—her coif sprayed soft pink to match a pink maribou-trimmed evening coat), were gifted, of all things mundane, oh me, a garbage disposal—"The perfect gift for the couple who have everything . . ."

We personally delivered, avec daughters, a lacy cupid edition to the Parkers on V-Day & believe me, it was a treat. Like walking right INTO one of those open-up & stand-up Valentines of a long lost romantic era.

BUT DON'T GIVE UP! The candy boxes couldn't be hidden under the arms of the homecoming husband-commuters & photog Don Jones was a man after Somebody's Heart picking out a bouquet of baby roses.

CUPID'S CLOTHESLINE: Lee & Lindsey Stokes, two Very Young Ladies, shopping at Black's w/their Mom & looking very lovable in starched & petticoated hearts & flower red dresses. A couple of Kate Greenaways, if we ever saw 'em!

From Pandora's Valentine Box: The Children's Home Society chapter held a luncheon-bridge last week featuring fashions from Economy Corner, the CHS shop at 52nd & Shattuck . . .

FUNNY VALENTINE . . . Caroline Walsh pushing a broom down the aisle in a Count M. costume — chenille robe, fuzzy slippers & a huge floppy lace curler-cover on hair-hider.

Helen Hoffman & Vicki in matching Lanz dresses of provincial heart print . . . Bea Van Gelder in resuscitated red lace, Billie Poole a quick-change artist from golf garb to blue chiffon . . . & Bea Hendrickson in one of those very basic blacks—of black tulle.

OH YOU KID! More on the Feb. 13 runway: Helen Davis in gardening outfit w/zipped knees in which she carried gopher tablets & snail bait . . . Show ending w/a "take-off" from "Gypsy" (literally) by Joyce Miller. Kudos to Maxine Doty, commentator, Lois Nelson for music, & co-chairmen, Marilyn Souther, Betty Lyman.

Let George Do It!

FIFTY Mile Dash: A gorgeous day Sunday & limping hikers from SOMEWHERE strung out along our freeway . . . Local boys John Hale, Deke Ballard & Buddy Worth starting their 50-mi. trek towards Martinez, w/their parents' blessings, prayers & packed lunches.

THE HIKING FAD is a wonderful thing for all of us. Now when the kids want to get somewhere, we can all tell them not WHERE to go but HOW to go! On their own two feet. The Village will seem like nothing after a hike to Tracy!

Sunny Sunday & an eyecatching sight, a horse, of course, gambling on the greens at Orinda Country Club. The Apaloosa on the loose belonging to the Ritchie Smith's deb dgthr. Deb.

A WELCOME BACK to Lofti & Fae Zadeh, home from a 6-mos stay in Cambridge, Mass. . . . Their son & daughter remain in school in the east but will be home for summer.

WE CAN'T figure out who's more excited. Grandmother Tilden who'll stay w/the five Carbone daughters—or Mel & Peg who'll have a 3-month second honeymoon abroad. They'll fly to NYC Mar. 16—sail soon after aboard the USS United States, pick up a Mercedes to behave like tourists & return mid-June by the Holland-Amer. Line. Mel, who'll duck off during the height of his big Orchid biz, knows that orchids will still sell like hotcakes, or better, during Easter time.

The five daughters of mama Peg (who looks like a petite teenager herself) will be taken under wing by Peg's mother who hosted her daughter & 30 friends to a Bon Voyage luncheon party last week. While Peg modeled a swank travel wardrobe, her 13-yr. old Jane did the commenting. What a team! The five girls, incidentally, incl. a set of seven-yr. old twins, something we didn't know before.

THE BABBLE & THE POET: Brave man, that poet Harold Witt, who sat down to lunch at Mike Lynn's w/a long table full of 14 ladies following last wed.'s Friends of the Orinda Library lecture. The Mark Twain-type man is minus a heavy full beard that he sported when first moving to suburbia. He started growing it while working as a librarian at San Jose State, because the lady librarian there kept staring right through him. He figured the progress of the hirsute growth would give her something to observe. But all he could observe was that she continued to stare, blankly & vaguely. Thank heavens our wonderful Orinda librarians aren't guilty of that! Unless they've got their eye on the final resting place of a nifty bit of bubble gum.

WHEN IT COMES to Incorporation, methinks it's the Rich who protest too much. But then, that's how they got there!

OWEN OWENS (a name you CAN'T forget), program chrmn. for the Contra Costa Press Club's Newspaper Institute to be held at Diablo Valley College, Mar. 23, has landed Charlie McCabe, Esq. & Man, Alive Bill Fiset for the afternoon session. The dinner speaker remains a Big Secret. A Big Man so big he might, last minute, have to bow out to faraway places. But here's hoping. Anyway, Charlie & Bill are 'Big enough for me! For the first time, I'll go!

GIVE 'EM THE HATCHET! The new movie prices, w/eleven-yr. olds paying a premium of one dollar, tots' tickets a whole half-dollar. No wonder the trek to movies in Berk & all points is so steady over the wknd.

A FINAL AXING: When the Father of Our Country plays second fiddle to the siren song of the cash registers at stores staying open on a national LEGAL holiday, then Caveat Emptor, we'd better watch out! What I mean is E Pluribus Unum. Let's all stay home & gorge on George. It's His Red, White & blue day!

Robinsons Divorced

On St. Valentine's Day, an uncontested divorce was granted Mrs. Jacqueline O'Hara Robinson from William Graydon Robinson.

Robinson, who is an Orinda resident and San Francisco businessman, has a monthly income of $4000, according to Mrs. Robinson's complaint. He has an accounting, real estate and investment business.

County superior court awarded Mrs. Robinson custody of the children, aged 11, nine and eight, and $800 a month for their support. She waived alimony. According to the settlement, Mrs. Robinson receives the couple's $40,000 home at 10 Los Altos Road, Orinda, household furniture and furnishings, membership in Orinda Country Club, and a station wagon.

Look of Luxury And Luster Is At Wells-Fargo

Banking in Orinda takes on a new luster and luxury with the completion of remodeling and enlargement of Wells Fargo Bank's branch at the crossroads.

Unique in banking is the fully-carpeted public banking lobby. Customers will wade to teller stations through a sea of deep-piled beige, white and gold.

TAKING OVER an adjoining building, Wells Fargo has used the extra space to house its officer department and to increase its teller stations from five to 11.

The entire bank, asparkle with new lighting, has been re-done in blending tones of mustard, white, gold and walnut.

THE TELLER counter—a single, uncluttered sweep—is topped in white and faced in walnut.

To complete the elegant banking picture, the bank has also installed new furniture throughout.

Officers of the Wells Fargo branch are Merle D. Brown, manager, and Elmer E. Anderson, assistant manager.

WELLS FARGO Bank at the crossroads is now remodeled. Manager Merle D. Brown and Elmer E. Anderson, assistant manager, are seated before the modernistic fireplace. The bank's officers now have offices where the camera shop was previously located. Besides new and enlarged facilities, the bank has been entirely redecorated. Sun photo by Bob Dulas

It's Off to the Races

In the Macy's-Gimbel manner, we might introduce newspaperman Owen Owens, his wife Lois, a lovely Georgia peach nee Mulhern, and their stepping-stone squad of five. We might and we do, suggesting that the model sports car in the pix is symbolic of life with a lot of little ones, like being "off to the races" all the time.

For instance, the family who attend church at Santa Maria are a favorite sight in their Sunday best, but according to the pretty young mother, it's a "real madhouse" getting them dressed and keeping them clean for the short span from Sleepy Hollow to their seats in church.

The genial outgoing Owens who likes cars and newspapers in that order, is business manager for the Daily Transcript of Concord, columns daily for that paper "The Grapevine," and was previously with The Independent in Richmond. Both papers are part of a newspaper group published by Owens Publications, Inc., on whose board of directors the Orindan serves.

The enigmatic Owens leads an ambitious life participating civic-wise both in his residential Orinda where he's a member of the board of Sleepy Hollow Improvement Association as well as in his business area where community activities are many. He is a member of the board of directors of the Concord Chamber of Commerce, chairman of membership committee for same and chairman of Concord Industrial Action Committee. He is a trustee of the board for Concord Scholarships, Inc., which benefits deserving Mt. Diablo School district graduates via large monetary gifts towards college, and a member of both the Concord Elks and Rotary Club.

In addition to these diverse interests, he is president of the Owens-Whittier Properties, Inc., and an avid car buff who drives a couple of connoisseur cars, one being an S-100 Jaguar, an aluminum-bodied '38 roadster. Together with his wife Lois he recently attended the California Newspaper Publishers' Association conference in San Francisco.

Lois likes to knit sweaters for her youngsters who wear them proudly and she placidly purrs one, knits two while Owens digs into the tower of newspapers he reads daily.

The Georgian lady has switched from her southern "Hey, all" to the casual California "Hi" which still astounds her family on long-distance calls. She is active in Santa Maria Mother's Club where 7-year-old Michael attends school.

Maureen, 5, is in kindergarten at Sleepy Hollow. Sean, 3, Patrick, 2, and baby Terrence, eight months, keep their mom "off to the races" at home.

Zander to Address Gov'tal Employees

Arnold Zander, international president of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, will address the ninth annual meeting of the California State Conference of Public Employees tomorrow at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley.

Attends Meeting

Mrs. Lars Jacobsen of Orinda Community Church attended the annual meeting of ministers and directors of Christian education, United Church of Christ.

Race Remains Same for Board

No further candidates have filed this week for the Board of Trustees of the Orinda Union School District, according to the office of County Superintendent of Schools Floyd Marchus.

Those who have already filed are: Herbert A. Waterman, incumbent; Dr. J. M. Boulware; Richard Bartle, and Edward Manuel.

Two of the five terms of trustees will expire this spring. Filing deadline is March 1. Election will be April 16.

Miramonte Mirror Miramonteens Walk 50

By KAREN STAFFORD and JACKIE EDENHOLM

Who says it can't be done? . . . Several energetic Miramonte seniors proved it can . . . what? . . . The "50-mile hike," of course—what else? The group, consisting of seven boys including Fred Chilton, Barry Willis, Mike Ozeroff, Gary Miller and his brother, and two Berkeley boys, started from Lucky's early Sunday morning. "With much vigah" they completed their journey in 12½ hours.

Totally exhausted from head to foot, they arrived in Orinda with an abundance of blisters and no food left, but they had succeeded! They took a route similar to the one given in last week's Sun where they passed through Lafayette and wound up in Tice Valley and from there almost to San Ramon High School.

At this point the boys turned around and headed for D.V.C. and then started back via Acalanes and Rheem.

Apparently the boys have a few words of advice for any future hikers. First of all, don't attempt it if you aren't in shape and secondly, if you think you are, either have a large supply of band-aids or wrap up your feet before you begin.

Tomorrow night Miramonte will meet with Fall River in our gym at 8 p.m.—so be sure that YOU'RE there wearing white! Also, enjoy this holiday to its fullest because next year Miramonte will not have this day off.

Freshmen and sophomores put on their annual talent show Thursday. The theme of the show was the activities of teen agers from the year 1890 to 1980. Although some upper classmen were not expecting too much, the assembly was a great success. When someone said that the assembly would be some competition for the senior show, we think they were right! Congratulations on a job well done!

Friday night was a "BYE" for the Matador basketball team. This was an ideal time for the Block M dance. With entertainment provided by the Greenwood Five and other groups the dance was a smash, which is partly due to the terrific job done by Bruce Nickerson who was in charge of the dance.

Some of those there were Bruce Nickerson and Alison Horne, Steve Perry and Nancy Allen, Doug Marsh and Roxie Smith, Bill Reid and Joan Dirckx, Mike Shepard and Donna Peake, Bob Miller and Syd Bynum, Doug Dermitt and JoAnne Warner, Sheridan Stampey and Doug Lehrman, Paul Locklin and Mimi Loomis, and Jay Grilli and his date.

We had thought that surprise parties were going out of style since there weren't any last week, but lo and behold another one popped up Friday night. This one was given by Rob Spott for Dan deGrassi. After meeting at Rob's house the party went to Dan's home to give him the surprise of his life. Some of those there were Dan deGrassi and Emmy Grah, Doug Lehrman and Sheridan Stampey, Rob Spott and Diane Moss, and Bob Case and Jane Barker.

Bob Williams and Gary Kose spent the week end in Los Angeles looking over colleges.

Friday night some of those who didn't go to the dance took advantage of the opportunity to watch the Del Valle-Acalanes basketball game. Some of those sitting in the Del Valle rooting section (I wonder why???) were Alison Stampey, Carol Meyer, Bob Young, and Pete Boyle. Alison and Carol, are you still planning on putting some arsenic in Bill Higgin's Cheerios??

Saturday morning radio K-WUN was host to many Miramonteens. Leslie Lee and the Greenwood Five provided some entertainment and we should really be proud of them. The program also proved to be very educational since we found out that Phil Grant is a descendant of U. S. Grant in his step-sister's side . . . Bob Williams is walking to Los Angeles, Miramonte needs a new drainage system . . . Beth Shepard won't be allowed to date until she is 21 . . . and girls shouldn't be allowed to date until they are 9, and boys not until they are 7!

Miramonte "exchanged exchange students" last week. Lole, who is from Turkey, stayed the week with Barb Hogle, while Toro, from Indonesia, stayed with Mike Eaton. I'm sure everyone agrees that Lole and Toro were two friendly ambassadors from their countries and will spread good will and understanding wherever they go.

We both would appreciate it very much if you would call us if you have any information that you would like to see in the column. Our numbers are 254-5616 (Karen) and 254-0419 (Jackie). HAPPY WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY!!

Volunteers Will Call During 'Heart Sunday'

The annual Heart Sunday drive of the Contra Costa County Heart Association starts Sunday when more than 6000 women volunteers will call on their neighbors for contributions to fight the disease called "the epidemic of the 20th century" by Dr. Paul Dudley White, eminent heart specialist.

For the first time in the eight-year history of the Contra Costa County Heart Sunday effort, the campaign will be extended through the week to March 3.

Mrs. Floyd Marchus, county Heart Sunday chairman, said "We are hopeful of reaching more people at home, both to seek their contributions and to give them important information about the heart diseases, by having a longer period in which volunteers can make their calls."

The chairman revealed that the goal sought in the 1963 Heart Fund is $75,000. This is approximately nine per cent more than the total of $69,106 collected in 1962.

Amounts garnered by the women doorbell ringers will be augmented by funds received by Heart-Days for Business volunteers who staged an earlier campaign in the business communities throughout the county.

Mrs. Marchus stressed two points regarding the nationwide drive. "First," she said, "this is not a fight against a single disease but a number of diseases affecting the heart and the circulatory system, including hypertension, high blood pressure, inborn heart defects, rheumatic heart disease and heart attack. "Second," the chairman said, "the American Heart Association and its affiliate chapters are the most important non-governmental source of support for scientists in the cardiovascular field."

Mrs. Marchus said that Heart Sunday volunteers will leave pre-addressed envelopes for families that are not at home during the eight-day drive so they may readily mail their contributions to the Contra Costa County Heart Association.

Local Heart Sunday chairmen include: Mrs. Heaton Randall, Alamo; Mrs. Donald Fiddler and Brooks Golden, Antioch; Barbara Bonnickson, Brentwood; Mrs. Lora Krumland, Byron; Mrs. J. J. Levanda and Mrs. J. H. Fleisher, Concord; Mrs. William Deaton, Danville.

Mrs. Gilles Corcos, Mrs. Arthur Scheu, Mrs. Lloyd Kindall, Jr., and Mrs. Howard Weber,

HEART SUNDAY LEADERS Mrs. John Scaglione (Pleasant Hill), Mrs. Howard Rudiger (Walnut Creek), and Mrs. Gilles Corcos (Lafayette) plan for the drive which begins Sunday and will last through March 3.

Vets' Tax Claims Receive Jury Check

The Contra Costa County Grand Jury will soon start its "accuracy" check of 500 veterans claiming property tax exemptions.

Questionnaires were mailed out earlier in the month to the 500, representing a cross-section of the 32,000 veterans living in Contra Costa County.

The papers must be completely filled out and returned to the grand jury, via the county assessor's office, by March 1.

IRONICALLY, the grand jury "check" action was taken as County Service Officer William R. Smaker reminded veterans that they can file or re-file for property tax exemptions commencing at noon, March 4.

Ed J. J. McKeegan, chairman of the grand jury, said the questionnaires were sent out to help determine the extent of any fraudulent, erroneous or incomplete returns filed last year for the veterans' exemption.

The information determined from the questionnaire check will disclose what steps the grand jury might take to curtail the number of fraudulent returns being sent into the county, McKeegan said.

THE GRAND JURY'S questionnaire requires that a veteran list all property capable of private ownership. For instance, it provides for a detailed listing of all assets encompassing real property, motor vehicles and aircraft, bank deposits, stocks and bonds, business interest, and all other forms of property.

A. W. Glendinning, assistant county assessor, said the grand jury is paying for all the costs involved in the questionnaire mailing, and the analysis of them.

Glendinning explained that the assessor's office has no investigative powers insofar as the questionnaire is concerned. "All we can do is check a veteran's real estate, the assessed valuation of his property, and the signed sworn statement returning with his property tax exemption paper," the assistant assessor said.

The veteran sent the grand jury's questionnaire must sign it under the penalty of perjury that his answers are "true, correct and complete."

The final date for veterans to file or re-file for property tax exemption is May 6.

UNDER provisions of the law, a veteran receives a tax exemption on property amounting to $1000 valuation so long as he doesn't hold taxable or non-taxable property with a combined valuation of $5000 or more.

However, under California's community property laws, a veteran can obtain the exemption on property held by him and his wife as community property if the combined totals are under $10,000 value.

County in Good Shape According To Annual Report

Contra Costa County has the potential to meet the demands created by rapid growth because it has an economy based on many and varied resources and its working population has educational training, skills and aptitudes that are above average.

This was the conclusion of the County Board of Supervisors' annual report released Tuesday.

Board Chairman James P. Kenny said, "This is the sixth such annual report issued by the board to the citizens. It contains, as have previous reports, an accounting of the income and expenditures of the county, the 69 county special districts and the 91 independent special districts during the fiscal year. The report, prepared under the direction of the county administrator, also presents a simplified but comprehensive outline of the organization and functions of the agencies of local government."

OTHER FEATURES are summaries of the services of the coroner-public administrator and the county library department, which this year is completing its fiftieth year of service in the county.

Copies of the 20-page report may be obtained without charge at county buildings in Martinez, Richmond and Pittsburg and at all county libraries.

A total of $70,448,000 was obtained from taxes on property within the county based on a rate of $2.35 per $100 of assessed valuation. State subventions in the amount of $9,528,000 primarily for highway, welfare and health purposes were another source of revenue.

Funds were received from the federal government in the amount of $6,100,000 for welfare purposes predominantly. Another $1,238,000 was for the use of schools, and $325,000 was received primarily for the construction of flood control projects.

County revenue from other sources such as sales taxes, licenses and permits and fines, amounted to $5,120,000.

Largest county expenditure was for education, $69,770,000. Day to day cost of running the county government amounted to $6,377,000 per year.

'Gigi' Romps and Rollicks

By MARIE MONAHAN

GIGI IS back and everybody loves her! But the simple truth is that the elderly and somewhat pompous grand cocotte played so profoundly by Orinda Jean Henderson gives the youthful girl some terrible competition toying for the heart of the audience. As well as for the Tonton (Monsieur Gaston Lachaille) and the favorite jenne fille character adapted to play by Anita Loos from a story by Colette.

There's nothing loose about this performance, however, except maybe the morals of the mind-like-a-steel-trap Alicia de St. Ephlam who attempts to lead Gigi down the primrose path to a like life of guaranteed diamonds, Dukes and dowry.

Via movie and stage versions, the theater-going public is pretty much aware of the romantic romps that make up this frothy French period piece. But the local talent takes to this vehicle like a timely Valentine for the ticket-buyers who'll find it as amusing as an old-fashioned card come upon in a dusty memento box.

PRETTY Bert Miller in her schoolgirl sailor hat and blue-caped coat plays the teenager tender, Tomboy and true-blue.

Veteran star Charlotte Chapple, wearing an Hermione Gingold hairdo, a faint blush and some bluster and the aproned, broad-breasted black of a doting grandma, is a sincere soul as Mme. Alvarez.

It runs in the family, the non-marrying kind, and the wedded clan includes Gigi's mother, played by Betty Reynolds, whose big eyes and full figure help her to fill the billing as the somewhat featherheaded Andree. Not to mention the black corset ave-lace which brings down the house as a scene-stealer, the first of two. She also manages to balance a champagne glass.

On her head while doing a concert-hall high kick and collects stage in an effervescent scene with another domestic, Sidonie. Here, petite Norma Betz, long-time Dramateur, plays her first speaking part as a bubbly but too much starch both in his collar and his character on preview night. But some of it has washed out by now for the Parisian dandy of a playboy who succumbs to Gigi's charms and decides to provide her legally with rat-tail licorices and a card-game partner for the rest of her life.

Jean Henderson plays Alicia to the hilt, costumed in the grand manner and loyal to her royal and regal, however illegal, past. Every movement is eloquent from her walk to her wiles and her wails.

POPULAR George Meyer plays the precise Victor, manservant of Alicia. He delivers a wicker basket of champagne to the Alvarez' home to share the stage in an effervescent scene with another domestic, Sidonie. Here, petite Norma Betz, long-time Dramateur, plays her first speaking part as a bubbly but too much starch both in his collar and his character on preview night. But some of it has washed out by now for the Parisian dandy of a playboy who succumbs to Gigi's charms and decides to provide her legally with rat-tail licorices and a card-game partner for the rest of her life.

THE PLAY, deftly directed by Carl Rasmussen, features some fine costumerie and a fairly authentic stage set. But what really floors, is that the Dramateurs' can turn out such a polished performance with only four weeks of rehearsal.

"Gigi" will play at Lafayette's Town Hall for the next four weekends. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Call 254-3909 from 9 a.m. 'til 5 p.m. weekdays for tickets at $1.75 for adults.

Go see "Gigi." Like Tonton, you'll lose your heart!

8th Graders to Register For Miramonte

Registration procedure will be explained for both parents and next year's entering ninth graders at Miramonte's orientation program, at the school cafeteria Monday at 8 p.m.

The meeting and registration materials represent an effort on the part of the counseling office to make pre-registration for entering freshmen as complete and efficient as possible for both the school and the parents, according to the Acalanes Union High School District office.

At a large group meeting, James Lewis, Miramonte principal, will give general information on the school. Parents and eighth graders will meet in six smaller groups with the respective counselors to thoroughly review registration information. This includes general information on the high school, lists of course offerings, planning sheets for the entire freshman year, and course outlines.

This year's orientation planning assures the school that parents who attend will receive full information on their students' freshman program, and that necessary information can be placed in their hands in ample time to complete the forms and return them to the school during March registration.

IN PREVIOUS years, counselors met with eighth graders at their elementary schools and sent this information home via the students.

This year, meetings will not be held at the elementary schools.

Individual appointments will be made with parents and entering students on March 4, before and after school. Registration will be completed by March 22.

At this time, 274 freshmen are expected to be enrolled during this period for 1963-64. The present 1962 freshman class numbers 240 students.

Dairy farmers reported that their cows produced milk at the highest rate in history in 1962.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Aviva Yahav, a former AAUW fellow from Israel, who is completing her work toward a doctorate in clinical psychology at the University of California.

Diane Wins Local Homemaker Contest

Diane E. Brysiewicz is winner from Miramonte High School in the 1963 Betty Crocker Search for the American Homemaker of Tomorrow. She thus becomes eligible for one of 102 scholarships with a total value of $110,000.

Having scored first in her school in the knowledge and attitude test on homemaking given senior girls recently, the winner's paper has been entered in competition with those of other state high school winners for state-wide honors.

The state Homemaker of Tomorrow will be named in the spring.

Mott Is Named Director of Symphony Board

Two new directors have been elected to the Oakland Symphony Orchestra Association's governing board, President Philip D. Bush, Orinda, announced recently.

They are William Penn Mott, Jr., 62 Ardilla Road, Orinda, and James M. Kaye, Berkeley.

Mott received the Outstanding Citizen of the Year Award in Oakland and the Man of the Year Award from the Garden Clubs of the East Bay in 1961, and the Honorary Man of the Year Award in 1962 from the Landscape Architects' Association.

Mott serves also currently on the boards of the Good Will, International Institute, Booth Memorial Hospital and the Oakland YMCA.

He is chairman of the California Roadside Council and an honorary fellow in the International Institute of Park Executives.

Mott and his wife have three children: Bill, now in Nigeria;

Mancy, an art student of U.C. at Berkeley, and Johnny, a fourth-grade student at Orinda School.

Nielsen Vote— Transit's End?

Last week, three Contra Costa County Supervisors, representing just 30 per cent of this county's total population, voted to endorse Jerome Waldie's rapid transit bill.

Waldie's bill proposes to exclude the industry-rich eastern county area from tax support of the district until direct BARTD service is provided. The Sun is on record opposing this bill.

Waldie could not have received this endorsement without the vote of Supervisor Mel F. Nielsen, District II.

NIELSEN VOTED WITH Supervisors Edmund Linscheid and Joe Silva. Linscheid and Silva represent the east county area.

Nielsen represents much of the central county—a commuter area that voted more than 61 per cent in favor of rapid transit in the November election.

Supervisors Tom Coll and James Kenny, who represent 70 per cent of the county residents, opposed the bill.

November election figures show the central county area was solidly in favor of the present Bay Area Rapid Transit District plan.

The vote, 61.6 per cent, was larger than the combined Yes vote for all three counties.

Although in some central county areas (i.e. Danville, Alamo), the transit bill received just a slight majority, there was no area that voted against the bill.

THIS, OF COURSE, IS understandable because the central county is a suburban, commuting area. It's apparent that better transportation into the Oakland, Berkeley and San Francisco areas is desired by the commuters.

It is easy to understand why Supervisors Silva and Linscheid voted to support Waldie's bill. There are few commuters in their districts. The eastern county area is not going to receive direct service from BARTD immediately.

However, it's not so easy to understand Nielsen's support of the Waldie bill.

He represents the commuter communities of Orinda, Moraga, Lafayette, Alamo and Danville. Along with Coll (Concord, unincorporated Walnut Creek and Pleasant Hill) Nielsen's district has the most to gain from rapid transit.

NIELSEN KNOWS HOW his constituents voted in the November election. He knows they favor rapid transit. Yet, he stated last week that no one in his area is against the Waldie bill which might wreck BARTD.

If Waldie's bill becomes law, central county residents could be burdened with a larger tax because the eastern county area would have its tax reduced. Or, possibly, the transit district might be killed altogether because of law suits from within the area left to pick up the whole tax tab.

This, of course, means no relief for the commuters and many others who would find the transit system a welcome relief from the hazards of freeway driving.

Nielsen actively campaigned against the rapid transit bond prior to the November election despite being the representative of a commuter area. But, it might be said that he didn't know exactly how the people felt at that time.

The people of this area then voted overwhelmingly in favor of the BARTD plan in November giving their elected representative a mandate—showing exactly how they felt on the matter.

FROM NIELSEN'S action last week it is obvious he is not representing the wishes of the vast majority of people in his district.

As well as voting against the people's wishes, he also suggests that other areas not included in the Waldie bill be excluded from paying BARTD taxes.

In effect, it appears as if he is trying to increase central county tax burdens—or wreck BARTD which the people of the central county desire.

'Local Control' Means a Lot

Lafayette and Orinda, two unincorporated areas in the central county, are again taking a close look at incorporation.

Not too long ago Alamo and Danville were also studying the possibility of incorporating.

At the present time, smaller areas such as Walden, between Walnut Creek and Pleasant Hill, are considering annexation to existing cities.

AS COMMUNITIES in the central county area continue to grow the services offered by a city government become needed. Lafayette and Orinda are small cities—in appearance if not in fact.

No matter how efficient the county government, residents of unincorporated areas find that there is no substitute for "local control."

In light of this "searching" by many of our local communities, it is interesting to observe recent actions by two city councils in this area.

The Pleasant Hill City Council, a little more than a year old, has turned down an application for a service station.

The council also put into effect an ordinance prohibiting draw poker parlors.

A few weeks ago the Walnut Creek City Council rejected an application for a service station. A few years back the council also prohibited draw poker parlors.

THESE STRONG stands on controversial issues show the advantages of a "home town" government. We feel this is evidence in favor of incorporation or annexation.

The actions by the two councils certainly are strong arguments for local control.

And, of course, local control is one of the prime arguments for city government.

RECIPE HAZARDS

Dear Editor:

Thank you for your check as my prize for winning in the Sun Shopping News Favorite Recipe Contest. While winning has its pleasures and advantages, let me cite some of its hazards:

1. When I showed your check, with a glow of pride, to my, heretofore, wonderful husband, he delivered what I thought was the crowning insult by suggesting that I use it to take him out for a real good dinner.

2. Yes, nearly everyone reads The Sun. This was brought out by the fact that about 20 out of 25 members of the Walnut Creek Garden Club, of which I am a member, called me after reading it in your paper. Moreover, instead of congratulating me on winning, they accused me of holding out good recipes on them. We all exchange good recipes with one another.

3. And this one is real funny—another reader looked up my name in the phone book and called; when I said "Hello" she said "Mrs. Murphy" and I said "No, Mrs. Stritzky" and she was so embarrassed she could hardly ask me her question which was: She wanted to make the recipe for six instead of four or eight and how about the eggs. Four called for one egg, eight would be two eggs, what about the egg for six? I told her she would be safe using the two eggs for six and she was most grateful and happy.

Just think of the trouble I am going to be in when my Irish Sweepstakes ticket comes through a winner.

Frankly, though, this has all been a lot of fun and thank you for your part in it. I love cooking and enjoy trying some of the good recipes you print.

FLUORIDATION

Dear "Snoopy":

So glad you passed the time of day with me recently, when you saw me working in the yard.

About fluoridation, there is just nothing like a little information, except maybe a little more information.

Your editor was impressed with the figure of three million new adherents to fluoride in the drinking water, and so was I!

However, I guess he didn't know that Sweden, a nation of well over seven million, decided against fluoride in the drinking water just last year. Seems one sort of negates the other and that there still are some pretty important characters who do not agree with Dr. Stare.

What do you think? Ah, go on, Snoopy; speak up, I dare you. Your boss won't get "hu hu" (Hawaiian for mad).

AN HONOR?

Dear Editor:

Your newspapers have the dubious "honor" of having been the first to portray me on the editorial page in the cartoon portion thereof. (For a moment there, I was at a loss for the proper word, thinking that the word "hon-

The following are fragments from essays written by students in our county for Brotherhood Week.

"To really practice brotherhood, you must go out of your way to do something for someone you don't particularly care for. This is the true mark of brotherhood. Like the smile, it is a universal language understood in all countries..."

"We observe Brotherhood Week once a year but it is something we should think about 365 days a year. Brotherhood is necessary to liberty and therefore must be practiced daily if this beautiful land of ours is to remain free and independent." (A seventh grader.)

"Brotherhood is a funny thing. It makes people feel happy inside. It spreads to others and when used in quantity, the quality of the individual improves..." (A senior.)

"Getting to the moon, stars and outer space would be a tremendous feat... But even more than all that, the practice of Brotherhood throughout the Universe would be the greatest feat of them all... Earth would be like Heaven or near to it..." (A seventh grader.)

"BROTHERHOOD should be our most important goal..." (A San Ramon ninth grader.)

"Communications, all important... We must have a unit of purpose; we must set the preservation of humanity above the petty desires to preserve any one system of government. We must be brothers, if we are to survive." (A Walnut Creek senior.)

"... Dr. Tom Dooley was an exceptional man. He taught the brotherhood of man knowing it had to be the brotherhood of the imperfect." (A senior.)

"BROTHERHOOD is an intangible feeling of the heart. When utilized, it unites a family, city, state, nation, or even a world. It is an invisible force, strong enough to repel war and destruction, gentle enough to caress the hearts of children." (A senior.)

Referring to the Constitution, the Thirteenth Amendment, the Fifteenth Amendment—"So now do you see why Brotherhood is so important to our country? Brotherhood contributes to a democracy. But of more vital importance is its contribution to this nation's battle against Communism..." (A seventh grader.)

BROTHERHOOD is giving to others the rights and respect we want for ourselves... through the Divine Father we are children in the same family..." (An eighth grader.)

"The man from the real estate office, he must lead a life of fear. He was so afraid that I do not believe he thought... I felt sad that a grown man should act this way..." (A seventh grader.)

"... When we want a watch repaired, we go to a watchmaker; when we want a car repaired we go to a car repair shop; when we want the hearts of men repaired of their lack of concern for one another, we need to go to the Creator of man Who will give that change in attitude which is necessary for the practice of true brotherhood." (A 10th grader.)

"BROTHERHOOD means to me friendly relations between all people. It means that all people are equal under God." (A seventh grader.)

"If ever the term 'brotherhood' was classified into a compact definition, it must have been by the Christmas message in its declaration of 'peace on earth, good will among men...' The achievement of the former is impossible without acceptance of the latter." (Concord senior.)

"In others, man must see equality. This seems to be so difficult to accept..." (A ninth grader.)

"All should share and share alike the seven freedoms given to us by our Constitution. The seven freedoms were meant for ALL citizens." (An eighth grader.)

"BROTHERHOOD is the master key for opening the door to social happiness for ALL mankind..." (An eighth grader.)

"Brotherhood is the key to peace which we Christians hold..." (Concord eighth grader.)

"Let brotherly love continue. Be not forgetful to entertain strangers; for thereby some have entertained angels unawares." (Hebrews, 13:1-2.) (A senior.)

"The people are what make a country and its government. Their actions control the universe. But the framers of our Constitution looked into the future and produced a long-lasting form of government. How the people continue to react will show its success. Only time will tell..." (A senior.)

or, "distinguished," etc., just didn't fit.)

Although I am not convinced that the likeness is a correct or a flattering one, nor that the sentiment expressed by the cartoon is in any sense correct, I would still like to have the original if at all possible for my office wall.

Would such a thing be possible?

Washington Is Still Real George

By JANE PUTNAM

George Washington wore goat's teeth for false teeth, which is why he never smiled for a portrait. He was indirectly responsible for having a man flogged to death.

These little-known facts (or fiction) about Washington were taught to our son and his classmates by a seventh grade teacher. His reason for drilling his students with such trivia was so that they would not idolize Washington.

They would think of him as a human being with foibles. They would know that he was a man—not a superman.

Happily for us, the teacher left the county—by request.

Flag waving seems to be a thing of the past. Kids in the past decade have made heroes of Davy Crockett, actor James Dean, Alfred E. Neuman, etc. The list covers almost every phase of our society—except for the great patriots.

And Washington seems to be the most neglected among them.

Is it because he wasn't flamboyant? Or because he didn't have a good P.R. man?

Were it not for the historically inaccurate biography by Weems, the cherry tree and Potomac legends wouldn't be a part of American folklore.

Let us teach our children the truth about Washington. He was the father of our country in the true essence of the word.

He was one of those to conceive America. He tenderly guarded it during its incubation. He fought for it during its infancy.

He protected it when it was young. He helped to make it good and wise. He watched over its first faltering steps.

"In the history of the world, no man has done more to help any country than Washington did to help the United States," says the World Book Encyclopedia.

"From the time George Washington was a boy, he loved his country deeply. He loved its mountains and rivers and plains... Most of all, Washington loved the spirit of liberty and freedom which they fought to uphold," the encyclopedia continues.

This Friday is Washington's 231st birthday.

Let's tell our children about him. Let's tell them that Washington's birthday means more than a day off from school.

Let's not split hairs and worry about whether, technically, he was the first president; or whether he really chopped down a cherry tree.

It is enough to teach young Americans that he stood for the highest precepts of truth and liberty that have ever been known on this planet.

He was the father of the greatest democracy in the history of mankind.

During his two terms as president (1789-1797): The first 10 amendments to the constitution were ratified. The first supreme court met in 1790. Vermont, Kentucky and Tennessee joined the union.

The cotton gin was invented. Plan for the capital was approved. Other firsts: mint, census, cabinet.

And in 1794, in the "Whiskey Rebellion," the first challenge to federal authority was put down. Just as it was in Mississippi in 1962.

The rich history of the past should be instilled in our children.

In terms of blood, perhaps other wars have been greater. But in terms of principle, all must be measured by The Great Revolution.

Let's beat the drums and play the flute and—above all—let's wave the red, white and blue. As long as we keep alive the spirit of 1776, we will indeed keep Washington's Birthday.

(Ed. Note—The editorial cartoon of which Assemblyman Waldie speaks was published in the February 8 Sun. His request for the original was granted.)

ORINDA SUN

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1963

Under The Sun A Confusing Column On a Confusing Subject

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

Are you confused about the proposed unification of school districts within the Acalanes area?

If you are, move over. I am too. The Sun staff has been studying unification for several years and we view it with mixed emotions.

The mechanics, alternatives and voting possibilities can be confusing to anyone who does not constantly study unification. In other words, you have to be an "almost-expert."

By this time, The Sun staff is not confused about mechanics, etc. We are confused as to what is best for the community and all the communities involved. (Walnut Creek, Lafayette, Orinda, Moraga and Canyon. Mt. Diablo School District has been unified for years, but is watching this area closely.)

"Best education possible"

"What is best?"—means or should mean what is the best plan to provide the best education possible for our children. Linked to this is a question of cost. "Best education possible—at a price we can afford to pay."

(The "cost factor" does not play a paramount role in the unification question. Most experts agree that unification will not save money. Others declare that unification can provide more services, better education for the same cost.)

Today let's look at the current proposal, upon which we will probably vote in the future. And, what is more important, let's look at the possible outcome of the election. This is known as Plan F.

1. Unification of the Walnut Creek and Lafayette school districts plus the three high schools therein. This would eliminate the Acalanes High School District in this area and would require establishment of a high school administration within the one consolidated district. A majority of voters in BOTH Walnut Creek and Lafayette would have to approve to put into effect. This is known as the proposed "Eastern District."

2. Unification of the Orinda, Moraga and Canyon school districts plus the two high schools herein. This would eliminate the Acalanes High School District. Since Orinda is by far the most populous community, a majority vote in Orinda would be required to effect unification. Or the proposal would be defeated if either Moraga or the few voters in Canyon said no. This is known as the proposed "Western District."

Plan F a compromise?

Plan F is the compromise hammered out by the trustees voted for—horizontal unification—one district for the whole area and are opposed to Plan F.

The proposal also calls for two separate elections. The elementary districts obtained a "gentlemen's agreement" from the over-all county committee that two separate elections would be held. This is not law. The county committee can set election procedure. This committee (plus local school representatives) meets again next Tuesday. The final plan goes to the state and, if approved, two concurrent elections will be held.

After the election what?

What might be the result of these elections:

1. The proposal could pass in both east and west. Two unified districts would be established. (Many believe this would provide excellent education, a feasible plan.)

2. The proposal could fail in both areas, leaving the districts as they are. (The state could then require submission of another plan and more elections. Voters would ultimately decide. They could conceivably continue to vote down any form of unification. Some of the proponents of Plan F hope this will happen. They believe "status quo" is better than unification for various reasons.)

3. Passage of Plan F only in the "east" would unify Lafayette and Walnut Creek districts plus taking three high schools from the Acalanes District. This would entail establishing an expensive high school administration, duplicating Acalanes' role in the west area.

Then, Orinda, Moraga and Canyon would continue as three separate districts and an autonomous Acalanes High School District would operate only Miramonte and Campolindo high schools. Thus, we would still have five districts.

(This is very possible. It is questionable whether a majority of voters in EACH of Orinda, Moraga and Canyon will vote yes.)

4. Passage of Plan F only in the west would mean unification of Orinda, Moraga and Canyon plus two high schools. Then, Walnut Creek, Lafayette and Acalanes districts would be autonomous in the east. The west would set up high school administration for two schools, duplicating Acalanes District in the east. This would result in four districts.

(This is also a possible election result.)

Half-way unification

The last two possibilities are causing much concern. It doesn't seem to make much sense to unify several elementary districts plus a few high schools—and then see the balance of the high school district continue operating in the neighboring communities, which chose not to unify.

Wouldn't this be more costly for the districts that unified as well as reducing education standards in their high schools? This could prove true in the district that decided not to unify. Many believe our present school divisions would be preferable to this.

What is the answer? Many observers argue that both east and west should unify—or none at all. This could be specified by the over-all county committee. It need not be one single election. Two elections could be held with the requirement that all areas must approve.

I can also see arguments against this position.

This area now contains six districts. Can you see substantial improvement if, after lengthy negotiations and election, we finally unify into four or five.

Well, what do you think?

Reservations For A.A.U.W. Show Begin

Proceeds from the show, which will display fashions from Irene Theiss and The Clothes Horse, will be used to help provide graduate fellowships for deserving women throughout the world.

The Ski Line . . .

Snow Fell and Fell-- That Is, 3 Years Ago

By HEC HANCOCK

Immediately upcoming is the big Washington's Birthday week end.

Traditionally, this has become one of the high points of the ski year. Church groups, Boy Scouts, youth groups and assorted others have come to choose this date for their annual outing in the snow.

When the holiday is a three day week end as it is this year, the throngs of skiers converging on the Sierra literally bring the mountain facilities to the saturation point. Skiers take to the highways leading to the mountains in such numbers that Highway 40 begins to look like a heard of salmon beating their way up stream.

In fact, the biggest Sierra ski week end on record occurred just three years ago this week end.

That year, 1960, the Washington's Birthday week end was also the date for the initial events of the Winter Olympics conducted at Squaw Valley.

The once tranquil little alpine valley, principally populated in the past by grazing cattle, served as the ski capital of the world for a period of two weeks. Crowds of over 60,000 people poured into the area.

And the weather and California combined to present one of the finest Olympics yet conducted.

Imagine the calamity we would have had, if our present snow conditions had existed then!

However, poor as ski conditions are on a comparative basis, they are probably the best we've yet experienced this season. Granted that's not saying much.

Ironically, this Washington's Birthday week end, devoted as it is to the snow bunny, is practically devoid of snow on the rope tow and beginner slopes. There's little snow below the 7500 foot mark and seldom do you find gentle beginner areas at that elevation.

On exception to this rule is the Echo Summit ski area. Perched high atop Echo Summit on Highway 50, this is a fine family ski area. The rope tows are functioning and mom, dad and the kiddies can all ski together.

A spacious parking lot adjoins the ski area, thus making it easy for those many trips that have to be made to the family bus for various and sundry supplies.

Last week, the Oak Grove Intermediate School held its first ever ski trip, taking advantage of the Echo Summit facilities. While most of the youngsters were making their debut on the slippery slats, many showed real promise.

Steve Gautier, after having spent a winter at Chester, demonstrated fine form.

Andrea Connes, Marda Streeter and Nancy Ball again showed that the distaff skiers need not take a back seat to their male counterparts.

Richard Davis and David Tomari also made fine headway.

Fritz and Betsy Breuleux together with offsprings Pete and Betty will forsake Walnut Creek this week end in favor of the Squaw Valley-Alpine Meadows area.

Art and Phil Burton of Walnut Creek, now attending Bellarmine on the Peninsula, are headed for a ski holiday.

The Dr. Ralph Legon family is another group headed for the slopes.

Forsaking the local scene for Sun Valley, a Walnut Creek trio of Frank Sellers, Joe Heim and Jill Burge will leave next week for vacation at the famed Idaho resort.

Sportsmen Urged to Give Support for Many Bills

By GEORGE R. WHITE

The past weekend was a poor opener for salmon . . . but at Pedro Point they were running about one and a quarter per rod. The striper situation is in sad shape at the moment. About all you'll get is shakers, but flounder are running to good sizes.

Steelhead at the moment is on the muddy side, but Paper Mill Creek is producing some.

On the inland scene Wragg Canyon up at Berryessa is slowly producing some two to three pound bass . . . someone hauled a three-quarter pound bluegill out of this lake . . . a few more warm days should start the crappies hitting, but good.

Word has it that Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel definitely will reintroduce his Tule Lake-Klamath waterfowl refuge bill. So, my fellow sportsmen, get on the wagon but quick and drop him a line. Remember this bill was passed by the Senate the last time, but failed in the House for lack of support. So let's get with it this time.

It would be wise that when commercial fishermen present their bill to reduce 35 to 50 thousand tons of anchovies annually to fertilizer that they should get this under the wing of Fish and Game. Fish and Game and their marine biologists may support this bill, so get it under their jurisdiction, not someone else's.

Also at the same time H.R. 9547 and H.R. 11343 are salmon enhancement bills in Washington and they should be supported. If these two bills go through it means that California will get about $11 million to improve our salmon situation over the next 10 years.

Another bill to support in Sacramento is the one introduced by Senator Teale of Calaveras County. It's designed to encourage more property owners to allow fishing and hunting on their property. The bill would make the property owner not liable for injuries incurred while on his property for recreational purposes. Let's get with all the above mentioned bills, they are for your good!

Go to your nearest newsstand and get a copy of March Guns & Ammunition magazine. Then turn to pages 18 and 19, reading the articles very carefully.

On page 21 is something that you should take full advantage of in order to support your right to "Keep and Bear Arms."

If you don't know by now I'll tell you. As a sportsman you have a right to "Keep and Bear Arms" as a free citizen, and it's your duty to see to it that it's kept that way and no other.

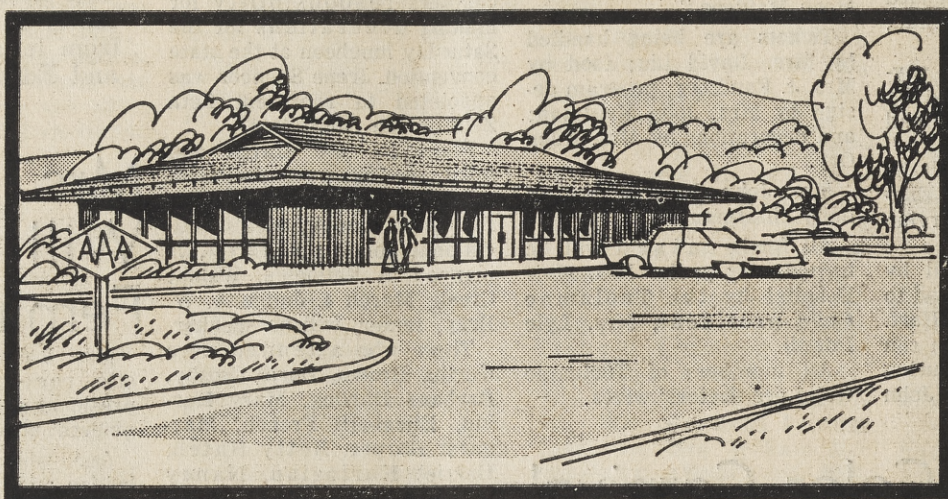

So get the above mentioned magazine and read all about it. The article on page 20 is really encouraging to anyone that owns even one gun of any sort.

This season's issue of "Fresh Fish and Salt Water Fishing" published by the Stance Sports Library has a very interesting article of interest to you fly flippers. On page 22 they show an entirely new concept of streamer fly fishing. The author goes into tying the Evans Marabou Streamer.

And man, the pics show a really good dupe of some of our minnows. For instance the Golden Shiner, Common Shiner, Silver Shiner, Blueback and many more. It seems that in the past it was very difficult to get the tinsel to "marry" with the Marabou material.

Salt makes cattle thirsty and the combination of salt and water helps cattle digest dry roughage.

TRICKY UNDERHAND shot is made good here by San Ramon's Ron McLaughlin during Friday's tilt with Las Lomas. The 6-2 forward for the Wolves tallied 17 points, yet his team went down to defeat, 72-64.

Friday Roundup

Dons Stagger to 46-44 FAL Win

It wasn't easy but Acalanes eight of nine free throws in the last five minutes of the game. The win gave Acalanes a 9-1 league record. Idle Miramonte was at 7-2.

Las Lomas' Bob Kreider sank 12 free throws and a total of 22 points to lead the Knights to their victory over San Ramon.

He was ably assisted by Steve Miles, 15, and Rich Leach, 13.

San Ramon also had its men in the double-scoring column in the high-marker tilt. Chris Reed led the Wolves with 20, followed by Ron McLaughlin with 17 and Chuck Ferreira with 14.

SAN RAMON was down by only one point at the half, 25-24, but the Knights shot ahead in the third quarter to take a comfortable lead which they held throughout the fourth quarter.

For the Bulldogs, Ken McNamara was high man with 15, followed by Bill Spina with 12 and Tim Hills with 10.

With both Pittsburg and Antioch upset in the DVAL's Contra Costa Division, the league lead was thrown into a three-way tie, with Clayton Valley joining the other two.

ALL THREE had 8-3 league marks.

Pleasant Hill had to go into double overtime before it finally outlasted Antioch in the one-point win.

At one point the Rams were 11 points behind but 20 points in the fourth quarter brought them in to a tie with Antioch.

The Rams' Mark Kimball, who led the scoring with 20 points, made the deciding free throw in the second extra period. He scored three points and Steve Dawkins two in those all important three minutes.

Dawkins had 10 points for the evening and Ray Perry came through with another 11 for the Rams.

ROGER MOWER paced the College Park Falcons to their close win over Pacifica by pumping in 24 points. He and Sam Martinelli, 11, were the Falcons' two big guns.

Dons Get Bye Tonight, Hope for FAL Title in Tuesday's Game

FAL Casaba Action Ends With Games on Tuesday

Acalanes enjoys a bye in tonight's round of Foothill Athletic League basketball games, but there will be plenty of action on tap for the other teams.

The Dons will undoubtedly enjoy the rest. Last Friday they had their hands full in pulling out a harrowing win over Del Valle, 46-44.

All FAL games and those in the DVAL's Contra Costa Division will be played tonight in view of tomorrow being Washington's Birthday, an official holiday.

THAT IS with the exception of the Miramonte Matadors who entertain Las Lomas tonight and then move over to Orinda tomorrow night for a return match with Fall River from McArthur in Shasta County.

Tonight the Piedmont Scots go up against Del Valle and Alhambra entertains San Ramon.

While enjoying a bye tonight, the Dons must get ready for their encounter Tuesday with the tough Scots.

In tonight's action of the DVAL's Contra Costa Division,

Pleasant Hill visits weak Pacifica and College Park plays host to Clayton Valley.

TUESDAY'S final FAL action, in addition to the Acalanes-Piedmont match, will send Del Valle against Alhambra and Miramonte against the very dangerous San Ramon Wolves.

For College Park and Pleasant Hill, their final league games will be against Mt. Diablo and Ygnacio Valley, respectively.

Miramonte moves over to Orinda tomorrow night to play Fall River from the far stretches of Shasta County because the Mats had visited Shasta County last year. At that time the Mats were defeated.

Though Fall River's enrollment is only 300, their team's front line averages 6 feet, 5 inches. Fall River has not lost a game in its own league since 1958.

BEFORE THEIR bout with Las Lomas Tuesday, the Acalanes Dons were leading the FAL with a 9-1 record. Miramonte, however, was expected to get over Alhambra which up to that game had won only two out of nine games.

Over in the DVAL's Contra Costa Division, College Park had moved far up into the standings with a win over Pacifica last Friday.

This, coupled with defeats by Pittsburg and Antioch, left the Falcons in second spot, behind the league's three leaders, Pittsburg, Antioch and Clayton Valley.

Santa Barbara Defeats Crescent in Polo Game

The Crescent Jewelers polo team recently was defeated 11-10 by Santa Barbara after giving the victors a two-goal handicap.

Members of the local team consisted of Roy Barry, John Stringer, Leo Hulseman and Vic Graber.

8 Teams Entered In Del Valle Tourney Mar. 1

Eight intermediate school teams will compete in the Fairview Invitational basketball tournament that starts at 7 p.m. March 1 in the Del Valle High School gymnasium.

The event is being supported by the Lafayette Kiwanis Club.

The competing teams are Stanley, Fairview, Walnut Creek, Pleasant Hill, Inland Valley, Camino Pablo, Pine Grove and Parkmead.

THE LAFAYETTE Kiwanis Club has indicated it would like to sponsor the tournament on an annual basis.

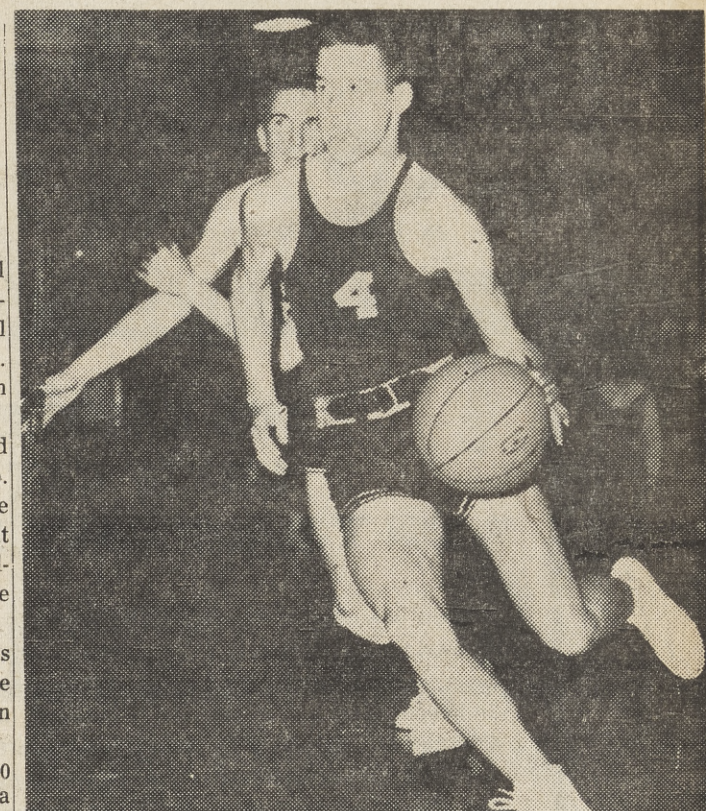

Each game will last for 10 minutes running time, with a two minute interval before the next match gets under way.

If a game ends in a tie, there will be a "sudden death" play-off.

Each team, win or lose, will play three 10 minute games.

A SCHOOL award will be given to all teams participating in the tournament. Ribbons will be awarded to players of the first, second, third and fourth-place teams.

Joe McElroy of Fairview School, who's made arrangements for the tournament, said each school will receive 75 student tickets and 25 adult tickets. Students pay 25 cents for the tickets and adults 50 cents.

COMING IN FAST for attempted lay-in shot is Steve Miles, Las Lomas guard. He scored 15 points to help Knights down San Ramon.

East Bay author,

"I helped ride herd on a hundred miles of water."

"An inspection ride with Chuck Higgins showed me how carefully our water is guarded every mile of the way from Pardee Reservoir to the East Bay.

"Chuck Higgins and his fellow 'hands' daily check these hundred-mile-long lifelines through which our pure water flows. Constant patrol of aqueducts is another example of how East Bay Water protects our entire water system, including new facilities of our $283-million Water Development Program...now more than half complete."

HIS CATTLE GREW FAT ON YOUR FRONT LAWN

Citizens' new office at Pleasant Hill—and very likely your home—stands on land once granted to Don Salvio Pacheco. Don Salvio was the first owner of Pleasant Hill...and Pacheco, Port Chicago, Clyde, Clayton, part of Walnut Creek and all the land in between. In 1869 this generous aristocrat donated part of his Rancho del Diablo to the flood-stricken residents of Pacheco, whose new community became Concord. When this village was only 16 years old, Citizens opened its first small office in San Francisco. Since then, thousands of families have bought or built homes on Don Salvio's land—many through Citizens' help. Now, Citizens has opened a new office in Pleasant Hill to make available a convenient, profitable place to put your savings.

Won't you stop in soon? We would like to meet you and present you with a free copy of Sunset's idea-filled booklet "Patio Fun" and a street and highway map of central Contra Costa.

Dymo Dozen Behind Label Rage

ZAP — YOU'RE LABELED — Selling like label-makers in the mid-county area is this new product from Dymo Industries, Incorporated. And no wonder: Dymo has a dozen ex-officio salesmen here to promote the product.

"Label it—don't lose it," is the motto of an ingenious new device making vast inroads in our possession-burdened society.

Surrounded by "things"—from tools to tennis rackets—the modern housewife has turned to the Dymo Home Labelmaker to regain control of her home.

Responsible in large part for the home maker's new sense of power are an even dozen Dymo executives and employees who keep their homes well-controlled in Walnut Creek, Orinda and Lafayette.

The labelmaker, which looks like a space gun loaded with letters, was introduced recently in the mid-county area.

Here, as elsewhere, it is selling too fast for the four-year-old firm's Emeryville plant production capacity, according to Rod Lomas of Lafayette.

THE REASON, Lomas suggests, may be the ease with which a housewife can operate the six and one-half ounce gun. "It's as easy as dialing a telephone number," Lomas explained yesterday. As each letter is dialed, the handle is squeezed, impressing the letter on a plastic tape. Advanced automatically, the tape is snipped off by a cut-off blade when the label is complete.

Being connected with such a product as it sweeps the nation has its "interesting moments," Lomas indicated.

The Lafayette man who bears the impressive title of Project Director, Advertising, dropped in at Simon Hardware in Walnut Creek last week to do some shopping.

WITHIN MINUTES the dung-aree-clad executive was corralled into the Dymo demonstration booth at the store, and was selling the product with verve.

Or take the case of 15-year-old Carolyn Smith, whose Las Lomas High School classmates continually ask, "Where do you get all the colors of tape?" (Dymo manufactures 10 key colors.)

Carol's mother, Ann, 111 Augello Court, Walnut Creek, who works in the Dymo accounting department, indicates that the labels are a rage among teenagers.

While Carolyn is besieged at home, another Walnut Creek student, Lorraine Maclean, 13, has won at least national fame.

LORRAINE, whose father, S. G. Maclean, 58 Oakdene Court, Walnut Creek, is Dymo's advertising manager, labeled her Monopoly game with the gun, as illustrated posters in stores proclaim nationwide.

And a mysterious (in New York if not here) "W. C. Hdwre" label found its way on to page 14 of Dymo's 1962 Annual Report.

"Walnut Creek" is also no doubt frequently mentioned in Lausanne, Switzerland, in Dymo International offices there, as the home address of Max Grahndin, 81 La Bolsa Road, international traffic manager.

Other Dymo personnel in the area can generally be singled out by their well-labeled school children.

THEY INCLUDE:
In Orinda:
Assistant Treasurer Harold D. Roebuck, 10 Fleetwood Court, Roebuck and wife Virginia are parents of four: Susan, 20; David, 15; Mary, 10, and Margaret Anne, 3.

Warren S. Clausen product manager, who lives with his wife Shirley and two children, Michael, 17, and Cathy, 10, at 7 Totterdell Court.

In Lafayette:
Lomas, with wife Marian and sons Christopher, 2, and Fabian, 4, at 3479 Monroe Avenue.

Vice-president of sales Robert A. Hummert, with wife Dorothy and 16-year-old son Grove, lives at 3472 Silver Springs Road.

Vice-president, manufacturing, John L. Whitcomb, with wife Mildred and children Bix, Elaine, Elisa, Mark and Jon at 3705 Highland Court.

John Schutzman, product sales manager, with wife Sheila and children Gregory, 6, and Tracy, 3, at 3219 Sharon Court.

IN WALNUT CREEK:
Customer service manager David Efron, with wife Diane and daughters Dara Lynne, 3, and Donna Lee, 8 months, at 2028 Montclair Circle.

Western regional manager David C. Burton lives at 1945 Meadow Road with wife Beatrix and two children, Kenneth, 9 and Linda, 8.

Speech Worker Scholarships Are Announced

Scholarships to train speech pathologists and therapists to work with children and adults who have speech problems caused by cerebral palsy are available from the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, according to Mrs. Ardis Loonie, executive director of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Contra Costa County.

Mrs. Loonie said that the grants under the national Easter Seal program are made possible through funds provided by Alpha Chi Omega, international women's fraternity.

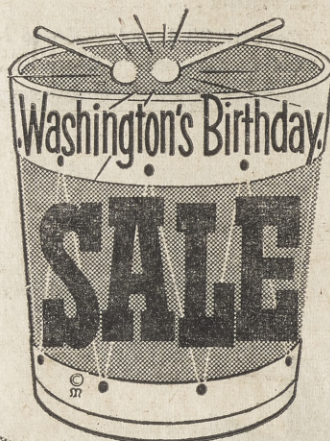

The scholarships, open to therapists already professionally qualified, are established to increase the number of specialists to serve persons with cerebral palsy, a neuromuscular condition often accompanied by impairment of speech functions.

Mrs. Loonie, a speech therapist by profession, said that cerebral palsied children are among the more than two million children with speech problems in the United States.

Vets' Exemptions Check by Grand Jury Under Way

Questionnaires are in the mail to a selection of county veterans in an effort to check erroneous property tax exemptions. The county grand jury prepared the questionnaire to find out if the county is losing money, according to Robert Kahn, chairman of the grand jury taxes and assessments committee.

"This is not a witchhunt," Kahn stated.

THE QUESTIONNAIRE requires a description of all property, except household furniture and clothing, that a veteran might own, in California or outside the state.

Property includes real estate, money in bank accounts, cars, stocks, bonds, life insurance and pension plans which has been owned as of March 5, 1962.

According to a spokesman in the assessor's office, most of the forms sent out went to veterans with enough property to be near the borderline to qualify for the exemptions.

Forms must be returned by

March 1. District Attorney John Nejedly said those not answering the questionnaire, when requested, would probably be investigated by the grand jury.

DV College: Over 10% Fail To Make Grades

Some 767 Diablo Valley College students have been placed on probation for failure to maintain at least a C-minus grade point average.

At the same time, the college reported an 8.2 per cent increase in enrollment by full time students, 18 per cent by part time students.

The increase, from a total of 5400 last year to over 6000 this year, will more than make up for 92 DVC students who were dismissed at the end of the fall semester for failure to achieve or maintain minimum academic standards.

The number of students on probation or "flunked out" at DVC is slightly higher than last year, according to Registrar John Carhart.

For the first time, the college dismissal and probation policy applied to part time as well as full-time students, Carhart said.

Bad Check Warning

A rash of checks from the Memory Gardens Cemetery, Concord, may be floating around the mid-county area, the county sheriff's office warned Wednesday.

Merchants are warned against the checks, and urged to report any such checks immediately to the department, according to the announcement released Wednesday.

Burglars stole 500 checks and a check-protector from the cemetery offices Tuesday. Check numbers begin at 14,400, the department said.

3 Hurt in Accidents

Three persons, including a 9-year-old Walnut Creek boy, were injured in traffic accidents in the Central Contra Costa County area last week, the Highway Patrol reported.

The boy was Peter M. Shank, 9, of 1332 Sunset Loop, Walnut Creek, injured when he rode his bicycle down a steep incline on Leland Drive and crashed into a car driven by Barry Behm, 17, of 1077 Leland Drive, police said.

THE BOY suffered a broken right arm and head injuries. He was taken to Kaiser Hospital in Walnut Creek.

Last Saturday noon the Highway Patrol had to cope with another injury accident on the Freeway's "snake" section near the Caldecott Tunnel.

One car, driven by Steven K. Lam, 24, of Martinez, was westbound when it veered across the center section and struck an oncoming car driven by Earle K. Moeller, 23, of 1967 Lucille Lane, Pleasant Hill, police said. Moeller, who was east-bound, was injured and taken to Martinez Community Hospital.

ON FEBRUARY 8 a woman suffered a cut hand when the car she was in flipped on Mt. Diablo Boulevard and came to rest upside down against a retaining wall near the El Curtola overpass in Walnut Creek.

The driver, R. J. Rasmussen, 79, also of Berkeley, told police he lost control of his vehicle when a speeding car overtook

More Candidates Start Pursuit Of Trusteeships

Voters in the San Ramon Valley Union High School District will decide a contest for school board in the annual election April 16, as a result of the recent filing of a third candidacy.

The new candidate is John C. Longaker, Sr., personnel-labor relations specialist, who resides at 112 La Questa Drive.

The incumbents, Dr. Jack V.

Shahbazian and Mrs. Frances P. Garrison, filed earlier.

Candidates may file with County Superintendent Floyd Marchus at his Pleasant Hill office until March 1 at 5 p.m. Registration to vote in the April 16 election will close Thursday (February 21).

Another recent filing brings to nine the number of candidates in the Mt. Diablo Unified District. George W. Whitney, 605 Bailey Road, Pittsburg, is the ninth candidate for one of two offices.

Two other recent filings, bringing the total of candidates in the Danville Union School District to five, are those of Fielden B. Tyler, an engineer, of 722 Diablo Road, and Mrs. Bonnie Kieffer Fiala, 236 Clydesday Drive. Two are to be elected.

Five incumbents who filed recently are: Robert Amber, Moraga School District; Jay J. Hansen, San Pablo; George H. Hammonree, Selby; Francis L. T. Brady, John Swett Union High School District; and Frank M. Stonebarger, Liberty Union High School District.

Paul G. Thomas, whose term is expiring on the John Swett board, has informed the county

Stay Away from Creeks, Sheriff Warns Children

Sheriff Walter F. Young this week alerted citizens of Contra Costa County to the danger of allowing their children to play near creeks which are swollen from heavy rains.

A number of incidents have been reported to the sheriff's department where children have been discovered in hazardous positions and in danger of drowning.

superintendent that he will not be a candidate to succeed himself.

Last Polio Day March 10

Physicians of the Alameda-Contra Costa Medical Association will join with those in five other Bay Area counties in a mass onslaught against the last of polio's three types on K.O. POLIO Family Day, Sunday, March 10.

The target is Type III polio virus; the weapon is Sabin Type III oral polio vaccine.

The campaign, last of a three-pronged attack on polio, has the full endorsement and support of the United States Public Health Service and the California State Department of Health.

Realtors Will Observe Holiday

All broker members of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board will observe Washington's Birthday as a holiday, according to an announcement from the board this week.

The next day this year to be observed as a holiday by board members will be Easter Sunday.

WHEN WHEELS CREAK

Do the wheels creak when the car turns a corner? It may be a loose bolt, points out the National Automobile Club. Loose bolts permit the wheel to wobble, and wheel wobble is the cause of one of the most rapid forms of tire wear.

Smart Sailors Follow the Sun

Mrs. James Richardson, 2609 Cherry Lane, Walnut Creek, said it was all smooth sailing when she sold a 12-foot metal boat with only one Sun want ad.

A single ad in The Sun sold a crib, mattress and sanitary chair for D. C. Moses, 59 Hacienda Circle, Orinda.

And a General Electric Mobile Maid dishwasher was sold to the first customer who answered the first Sun want ad placed by R. J. Winkensch, 1490 Rancho View Drive, Lafayette.

These "success stories" prove what is almost an old saying in the central county area: Sun want ads get results!

This is because one Sun ad (only $1.60 for 14 words, less for multiple runs) appears in five Sun Publications:

The 59,000-circulation Sun Shopping News, plus:

The four Sun subscription newspapers, including the Walnut Creek Sun, The Orinda Sun, The Lafayette Sun and The Pleasant Hill Sun.

This coverage can get results for you.

Seeks Info. on Youtn Camps

Information is sought on summer activities, day camps and residence camps available to youth up to age eighteen, announces Mrs. Wallace Bonner, summer survey chairman for the Central District Council of Community Services.

A survey form is being sent to recreation districts and departments, schools, youth-serving agencies, and informal clubs in the effort to ascertain summer leisure-time plans being made for Central and East county communities.

Filling the gaps between programs already planned and for age groups who may be left out, or eliminating duplication in activities is possible only with complete information.

Individuals and organizations who sponsor informal summer youth activity are requested to write or phone the council office, 3184 Old Tunnel Road, Lafayette, 935-0921, to insure their receiving the survey sheet and being included in the listings.

"The information on summer fun and interest will be published in March and made available to all residents, particularly newcomers to the community, who are looking for variety and enjoyment for their children," concludes Mrs. Bonner.

HAVE SPECIAL CHAMOIS

A special chamois kept for cleaning the glass in the car will eliminate the danger of scratching it with grit taken up from the body or chassis, points out the National Automobile Club.

13 DVC Girls Get Nursing Degrees

The young women receiving certificates of achievement included Mrs. Jessie Bankert of Pleasant Hill, Sarah Louise Buchanan of Pleasant Hill, Mrs. Laverna Cadenasso of Concord, Mrs. Amelia Crowley of Concord, Mrs. Susan Sullen of Lafayette, Mrs. Lola M. Ensor of Walnut Creek, Mrs. Norma Erikson of Concord, Mrs. Ruth Johnson of Antioch, Herminia Martinez of Walnut Creek, Mrs. Kathy Nitschman of Pleasant Hill, Mrs. Georgia Pederson of Walnut Creek, Mrs. Marie Villanueva of Concord and Mrs. Lillian Wilson of Walnut Creek.

Dieter Enters Prints in Show

Four prints by Charles Dieter, 50 El Paso Court, Walnut Creek, have been entered in the International Exhibition of Photography held in conjunction with the National Orange Show in San Bernardino.

Dieter entered his "The Poker Player," "San Luis Rancher," "Guardian of the Coast" and "Changeless Desert" in the show.

The work will be judged in March.

Tennis Addicts May Play on 18 New Courts

Tennis enthusiasts in both the western and central sections of the county will be enjoying new playing facilities before the end of the year as a result of action taken by the governing board of the Contra Costa Junior College District.

The board has retained the San Francisco architectural firm of Rockwell and Bammel to prepare working drawings and specifications for the construction of 18 tennis courts—nine on the Concord campus of Diablo Valley College, and a like number on the San Pablo campus of Contra Costa College.

Total estimated cost is $111,150, to be paid from college Civic Center funds.

Emergency Suicide Care Reported

Gratification at the "refining" process on emergency-suicide psychiatric care and an emergency number being undertaken by the Community Mental Health Services was expressed recently by President Aron S. Gilmartin of the Contra Costa County Mental Health Association.

"We are most appreciative of the many problems involved in the tightening up and re-evaluation and expansion of present psychiatric 24-hour care at the county hospital facility.

Father, Son Lead Local Industry Grads

The first group of men to complete 30 units of study in the Contra Costa Junior College District's industrial management program have been "graduated" with certificates of achievement.

Certificate awards were made to six men, including an Antioch father and son team, by Fred R. Abbott of Brentwood, a trustee of the district governing board, at a luncheon on the Diablo Valley College campus.

The graduates, all employed in private industry or by governmental agencies, brought along their employers as guests.

The father and son graduates are Evan J. Vaughan of Box 420, Antioch, and his son, Everett of 2401 Applegarth Lane, Antioch. Evan is an employee of the Columbia-Geneva Division of U.S. Steel, Pittsburgh, and Everett is employed by the Linde Company.

Other graduates are John D. Nailen of Concord and Don Moore of Walnut Creek, both employees of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company; J. J. Morrison of Livermore, Lawrence Radiation Laboratories, and Charles F. Hildreth of Concord, Tidewater Oil Company, Avon.

"We are encouraged by the thought among the professionals cooperation of the Mental Health Services and individual psychiatrists and psychologists who are willing to serve on a 24-hour call basis," he said.

THE QUESTION of emergency care was discussed at a Community Mental Health Advisory Board meeting, with Dr. Delbert Wilcox of Walnut Creek reporting.

Dr. Wilcox pointed out that there were two schools of

Begonia Tubers Available Now

Tuberous begonias are available in tuber form at California Association of Nurserymen nurseries this month for the gardener to start in flats of leaf mold or planting mix.

Peat and sand may also be added to the sprouting mixture, but the important thing is to be sure the mix is kept moist after tubers have been inserted. Put the flat in a sheltered place such as a garage or lath house and wait until the top growth is fairly started (two or three inches high).

Agression Hit By Crittenden In Safety Note

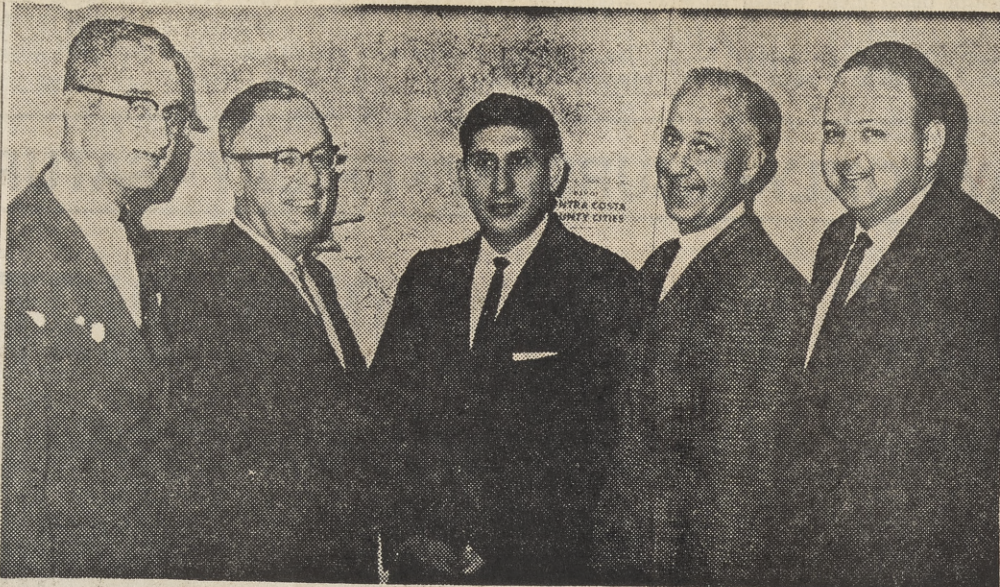

Driving safety can be defined in two simple terms—compliance and common sense, California Highway Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said this week.

"Our statistics show that more than four-fifths of all California accidents involve a violation of law. Compliance alone could eliminate a majority of the accidents.

"Common sense, or the lack of it, cannot be directly measured by statistics. But the mounting accident toll indirectly reflects a disregard of mature driving attitudes.

"Every time a motorist aggressively takes the right of way in a conflict situation, lets his attention stray from the job of driving, tries to cover too much distance in too little time, or overdrives his visibility range—to name a few instances—he sets aside common sense for expediency.

"In some areas of life failure to observe the law or common sense procedures may result in discomfiture or embarrassment. "On the highway the price can be much higher—too high to take the chance," the commissioner said.

PROMOTERS of big plans for retail trade this year in Walnut Creek are area Chamber of Commerce retail trade committee members (left to right) Will Richmond (City Music House and School), Nick Carter (Highland Realty), Ben Martinez (Mel's Mens Shop), Chairman Herb Gorenson (Herb's Hardware) and Aaron Simon (Simon's). ## Academy Gives Officer Training

The 30th session of the Northern California Peace Officers' Training School will open at the Concord Police Academy Monday, according to Charles E. Grant, police science coordinator, Contra Costa Junior College District.

The five-week course, sponsored by the college district, was inaugurated in 1949, the first of its kind in California.

Serving law enforcement personnel from Kern County north to the Oregon border, it has since turned out more than 1700 peace officer graduates.

The school's advisory committee of 13 Northern California police chiefs and sheriffs includes police chiefs L. M. Brilliant of Walnut Creek, Charles E. Brown of Richmond, Ron W. Orin of Concord and Sheriff Walter F. Young.

The 1963 spring training school will remain in session through March 30.

'63 Officers Installed by Dental Society

Contra Costa Dental Society installed the 1963 slate of officers at the Galileo Club in Richmond recently.

Dr. C. Walter Cole, Richmond dentist and past president of the Contra Costa Dental Society was master of ceremonies for the festivities.

Installed as president for 1963 was Dr. Lee Winters of Concord, president-elect is Dr. David Cook of Pittsburg, Secretary for 1963 is Dr. Myron Peters of Pinole, and Treasurer Dr. Leon Schneider of Walnut Creek.

Dr. Len Schmitt of Concord is the new editor and Dr. David Tittle of Pleasant Hill is public information director.

Cancer Society Plans for Drive

All of Contra Costa's 25 communities will have representatives at a meeting of American Cancer Society 1963 campaign volunteers on February 28, from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The meeting will be held at the cancer society's county headquarters at 2180 North California Boulevard, in Walnut Creek. Mrs. J. J. van Loben E. Jr., of Lafayette, county residential chairman for Contra Costa, will speak at the meeting.

John L. Cooley of Walnut Creek, county campaign chairman, also will address the assembled volunteer leaders, as will Dr. Frederick A. Pellegrin, member of the cancer society board and director of volunteer training.

This annual meeting will launch organization plans for the April drive throughout the county, according to Mrs. Helen Macfarlane, executive director of the Contra Costa Branch of the cancer society.

Attend the FREE Sun Travel Show TONITE

Travel Night to Feature Films, Fun This Evening

Tonight is a family night of fun, films and prizes at the Acalanes High School auditorium, 8 p.m.

It's The Sun Travel night, featuring free films of the Orient. "We're glad to share these evenings with central county residents," Sun Editor-Publisher Herman Silverman said yesterday.

It was for evenings such as the travel night, music night and candidates' night that The Sun was named the second most community-minded weekly newspaper in the state last week.

Tonight's "night" concentrates on the wonders of the Orient through films provided The Sun by the Japan Tourist Association.

"Enchanting Japan" begins with a traveler's view of a flight into Tokyo.

Arriving in this colorful city, the tourist will then take a sight-seeing jaunt through the Tokyo business district and shopping center.

A rail trip from Tokyo takes the armchair tourist all the way from Lafayette to such cities as Kamakura, Hakone, Nara, Osaka and Nikko.

During stops enroute, viewers will be treated to close looks at the beauties and cultural activities of Japan.

Golfing at Hakone, the fishing industry at Nagoya and a pottery making demonstration at Kyoto are among the featured subjects.

In addition, "Miyako Odori" cherry dancing at Kyoto will be shown as will "Bugaku" court dancing at Nara.

For the youngsters, a "Bunraku" puppet play at Osaka may please.

The film "Kyoto," also in color and with sound, will take the audience into the heart of this ancient city for views of day-to-day life as well as commercial, cultural and commercial activities.

The Sun Orient Tour departs from San Francisco April 18.

Due to recent changes in BOAC jet schedules, two bonus days in Hong Kong have been provided.

The deluxe trip for only $142, offers the best in jet flight to the Orient by BOAC, with accommodations in only the better rooms of first class hotels throughout the Far East.

In addition to the basic 22-day trip, options are available for a 15-day tour of Japan.

Calif. Citrus Is a Good Buy

Citrus fruits are in the news. It is reported that Florida lost up to 40 per cent of this winter's orange and grapefruit crop. California Navel is in season from November to May and are excellent for eating whole, juice oranges, such as California Valencia, are lower in price.

Tangelo's get their name from the tangerine and "pomelo," the family (generic) name for grapefruit.

They are a cross between the orange and the grapefruit. This is a fairly new fruit in season from November through March. It's good eating "as is," in fruit cocktails, and in salads.

Whatever kind of citrus fruit you are buying—use weight as a guide. Citrus fruit heavy for its size is usually better quality than that light in weight. Surface blemishes do not affect the flavor or texture.

Violets Give Woodsy Look

For many gardeners, the pleasures of growing pansies and violas is nothing compared to the joy of picking fragrant bouquets of their cousin, the violet.

Violets are not much for landscape effect, but they have a wild and woodsy look about them, which may be just what you need for some partly shaded corner of the garden.

Leaf Curl Is Easy to Control

Peach leaf curl, that disfiguring and debilitating fungus disease, which affects both peaches and nectarines, is easily controlled by one of the good fungicides available in local California Association of Nurserymen nurseries.

A thorough soaking is necessary to give proper control, so be sure to hit not only the trunk and branches, but also the base of the tree, where any fungus spores might be overwintering on fallen leaves and twigs.

Haring Talks On Education

Special education—of the mentally retarded, physically handicapped, and others—was discussed by a nationally known expert in the field at two meetings in Central Contra Costa County yesterday.

Dr. Norris Haring addressed school superintendents and directors of special education at 10 a.m. in the offices of the Contra Costa County School Department at Pleasant Hill on "Directions and Projections — Special Education, 1963."

From 3:30 to 4:30 p.m. the speaker addressed teachers in the board room of Mt. Diablo Unified School District, Concord. Dr. Haring is educational director for the Children's Rehabilitation Unit of the University of Kansas Medical Center.

Treated Water, St. Mary's to EBMUD to Meet Have Math Talk With Builders

Allan Fuller, president of the Home Builders Association of Contra Costa County, announced that the next general membership dinner meeting of the builders group will be held at the Concord Inn on Willow Pass Road, Concord, tomorrow. Program for the evening will consist of a two-man panel:

Robert Johnston, manager of Contra Costa Treated Water Division and John McBride, supervisor of new business section, East Bay Municipal Utility District, who will discuss the policies and activities of their separate organizations in relation to the building industry.

Fuller said water distribution in our county is a "vital factor" in the continuing growth of Contra Costa and that any person interested in this subject is invited to attend the scheduled meeting.

Reservations may be made by contacting the association office. A social hour starting at 6:45 p.m. will precede the dinner meeting at 7:45 p.m.

Professor George Polya, internationally prominent mathematician, will address a group of teachers and students under the title, "Let Us Teach Guessing," at St. Mary's College, March 9. The talk is sponsored by a National Science Foundation Service Institute under the direction of Brother T. Brendan, assistant professor of mathematics, and is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. The institute is primarily for junior high school teachers.

Dr. Paul Healy of 2448 Westcliffe Lane, Walnut Creek, instructor in the institute, will introduce the speaker.

At the national convention in Berkeley, the Mathematical Association of America awarded the Chauvenet Prize for distinguished service to Dr. Polya in recognition of his contributions to mathematics and mathematics education.

He is at present professor emeritus at Stanford University and was recently honored there by having a new statistics building named for him.

Robins, Robins Wherefore Art Thou? Moths Go 'Way

By GLADYS SHALLY

Robins—where are you? Oak moths—why are you?

Evidently man is not the only critter that is all mixed up by our off-beat weather. Thinking back over the last few years, it seems as though most of our winters have usually been unusual.

PERHAPS BECAUSE of our curious climate has arisen the mysteries of the missing robins. Then, to add to the abnormality of the season is this sudden unwanted (and unwanted) appearance of great numbers of oak moths.

They are not scheduled to begin to plague us until about

By this time of year the robins and their cousins, the varied thrush (similar to robins with a black chest band) are normally in the Bay Area by the tens of thousands. By mid-February, pyracantha, cotoneaster and toyon bushes should have been stripped.

IN SOME PLACES berries would have been gone by January. Some years we have fussed because the birds have NOT eaten the berries. Bushes are becoming unsightly with rotting red berries, all of which are full of seeds, which will drop and soon little cotoneasters and pyracanthas will be springing up all over the place. It is a mystery, too, why even the wild toyons in the Sierra foothills have not been touched.

People who live near oak trees now have this other problem—the early emergence and overabundance of oak moths. If could mean that there will be three broods this year of the little varmints instead of the usual two.

And, unless we have a spell of real cold weather, it could also mean a year of defoliated oaks. There was a season some 10 years ago when the defoliated oaks were left brown and dead-looking as though fire devastated.

OF COURSE, the oaks are not really "moth eaten" for moths do no damage to the trees. They merely lay eggs that hatch into larvae with voracious appetites for oak leaves, evergreen or deciduous.

Newcomers, with oak-shaded residences, may discover that patio parties may not be desirable during caterpillar time. These little larvae champ noisily as they work their way through the oaks. As they grow, they molt five times, littering the area with their cast-off skin casings while their droppings patter upon the places beneath like a gentle rain.

When the caterpillar is full grown (about 1 1/4" long, olive green with yellow stripes), it is ready for the cocoon stage. Seeking a place to pupate—any convenient object will do—he hangs by his silken thread, swinging in the breeze. Beware at this time!

THE SECOND generation (if there be only two) emerges as the familiar inch-long pale brown moth in October and November.

Oak moth pests are not with us en masse every year because of their many natural enemies: insect and animal predators, parasites and a bacterial wilt disease.

Entomologists tell us there have been California oak moths as long as there have been oak trees, although they do seem to prefer the Bay Area for their operations. The trees do not actually suffer from their denuding, but are enriched by leaf particles, sand-like droppings and discarded skins.

The number of moths each year depends upon climatic conditions, which also determines whether more moths or their natural enemies survive.

If you do not wish to depend entirely upon the oak moth's natural enemies, you might follow the recommendations of the county farm advisor and spray.

Control measures should be particularly directed against first-brood larvae, usually in April and May, but if mild weather

The farm advisor office may be contacted for spray instructions.

WE RETURN to the question of where ARE the robins? Even if they were here it is doubtful that they would help eradicate the moth caterpillar, they prefer ground worms.

The Audubon Society, fish and game people and park naturalists are as baffled as we are as to the whereabouts of our colorful feathered friends. There are park hints from some quarters that the author of "The Silent Spring" predicted truthfully about sprays killing off bird life.

(Maybe you'd better not spray those oaks after all.) Some say, persistently, that the great flocks are staying in the North and the high mountains because of the mild winter. (What about the January freeze?)

Others have reported having seen small flocks visit here and there in our area, momentarily tasting a few berries, then flying off disdainfully.

One bird watcher on a Sierra jaunt reported seeing a large flock of robins flying east. May be conditions are getting a little congested in this "Biggest State" and they feel they will be more welcome in the east.

After all, the robin is the state bird of Connecticut, Michigan and Wisconsin.
